Three killed, 49 injured

A spectacular explosion broke in half a tanker berthed at Los Angeles Harbor Friday night, killing at least three persons and injuring at least 49 crewmen, passersby and residents of the area.

Nine crewmen were unaccounted for.

The blast rocked areas as far as 30 miles away, causing hundreds of frightened residents to call police.

Several looters were reportedly arrested in San Pedro before police could close the area.

ported a double-rig truck loaded with plywood to the area to board up broken shop windows.

Coast Guard officials said at least 25 persons, mostly Italian crewmen from the flaming tanker, covered with crude oil, were plucked from the water by a cutter and by private yachts.

The 810-foot tanker Sansinena, flying a Liberian flag, had unloaded 500,000 barrels of Indonesian crude oil in the afternoon at Berth 46 at the Union Oil Bulk Terminal.

About 55 persons, including crew members, were reported on board the empty vessel while it was taking on fuel for the ship itself when it exploded at 7:45 p.m., sending flames 1,000 feet.

"It was like a sonic boom," said a resident who lives five miles from the scene. Other residents thought it was an earthquake.

Sniper threat on Patty closes Hearst Castle

SAN SIMEON (AP)—The Hearst Castle state park was closed indefinitely Friday following a sniping threat from an anonymous caller who demanded that Patricia Hearst be surrendered to a radical group.

The call was received by a dispatcher at the castle at 6:47 a.m.—about 12 hours after a nationwide telecast of an interview here in which Miss Hearst condemned former underground companions.

THE San Luis Obispo County sheriff's office said the male caller identified himself as a member of United Front.

"You must turn Patty over to us soon or our snipers will shoot anybody around her, including family or guards," the caller was quoted as saying. "You will hear from us soon."

Authorities say they are not aware of recent activities in California by any group calling itself United Front. However, in August 1969, a New York-based group calling itself United Front distributed leaflets in the San Francisco Bay Area and announced it was dedicated to "the complete destruction of United States imperialism" and to "equality for all minorities." The group later identified itself as a coalition of black and Chicano groups.

THE FBI in San Francisco said it was not involved in the case because Miss Hearst, under provisions of her recent release on bail, was under the protection of private security guards.

George King, senior vice president of Burns Security, declined to comment on the Hearst's whereabouts.

Miss Hearst and her parents, Catherine and Randolph, reportedly had been staying at a Hearst house a mile from the castle.

The castle, about 150 miles south of San Francisco, was built in the 1920s by Miss Hearst's grandfather, William Randolph Hearst. Since it was donated to the state, the estate now normally is visited by nearly 1,000 visitors daily at this time of year. The Hearst family retains occupancy privileges.

A SPOKESMAN for the State Department of Parks and Recreation, Robert Van Horn, said the castle was closed to the public Friday morning and would remain closed indefinitely as a safety precaution. He said the threat apparently came to San Simeon because the CBS interview with Miss Hearst was conducted at the castle.

One of the castle guest houses was bombed Feb. 12 by the New World Liberation Front, a terrorist group which has claimed responsibility for many San Francisco Bay Area bombings and has criticized Miss Hearst for turning against former underground companions.

Vast slick drifts in Nantucket ship 'splitting apart'

BOSTON (AP)—The oil tanker Argo Merchant, grounded in battering seas off Nantucket Island, was in danger of opening up like "a cracked walnut," a Coast Guard oceanographer warned Friday.

The Coast Guard said an oil slick at least eight miles long from the unmanned Liberian tanker was drifting toward Nantucket.

"My opinion is that this thing will go," said oceanographer Gary Hufford after flying over the 610-foot vessel. "It will open up like a cracked walnut, and that will really be sad because there's a lot of oil on that ship."

Earlier in the day, stormy seas halted efforts to unload the tanker, which piled onto shoals off the island Wednesday on a trip from Venezuela to Salem, Mass. The tanker had 7.6 million gallons of heavy industrial oil in its tanks at the time of the grounding.

Hufford and Joseph Deaver, who is part of the Coast Guard ocean-current mapping team, surveyed the ship and the oil slick from a plane Friday.

"IT'S HEADING TOWARD Nantucket," Deaver said. Unless conditions change, he added, the slick would wash onto the shores of the island resort by nightfall today.

The Coast Guard said sea water had been discovered in 25 of the ship's tanks, indicating there are fractures in its hull. Capt. Walter Folger, chief of the Coast Guard's marine safety division, called the situation "potentially catastrophic."

The Argo Merchant, with its stern settled at least 18 feet into the sandy shoal, was being buffeted by waves six to seven feet high and winds approaching 30 miles an hour.

Gale warnings were posted in the area.

Saudis vow to hold all oil-price hikes to 5%

DOHA, Qatar (AP)—Saudi Arabia predicted Friday that oil prices would not rise beyond 5 per cent, pledging to boost their production to thwart the oil cartel majority's decision for a 15 per cent hike.

The forecast by Saudi Oil Minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani followed a two-day meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting countries (OPEC) at which Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates broke with the majority and held out for a 5 per cent increase.

THE SAUDIS' 8.5 million barrels daily already account for 30 per cent of all crude oil output by members of OPEC, and Yamani said his country has a daily capacity of 11.8 million barrels.

Asked if Saudi Arabia will raise production to whatever level the market demand, Yamani waved a string of worry beads and said, "This is normal."

U.S. government officials have predicted a 1-cent rise in the price of a gallon of gasoline for each 5 per cent increase in the OPEC price structure. The first effects of the price rise are expected to show up at U.S. gas pumps in late January.

WEATHER

Cooler today with some early morning low clouds. A high in the 60s is forecast with the low in the 40s. Complete weather on Page C-9.

Mobil Corporation said gasoline prices will increase by about a penny a gallon, with consumers paying more at the pump beginning in February or March.

Consolidated Edison Co. said the oil cost rise will translate into a "1.5 per cent to 2 per cent" monthly rate increase for a typical residential customer in the New York area.

And spokesmen for the nation's airlines said the price boost will cost carriers an additional $200 million in operating costs. The airlines expect that the Civil Aeronautics Board will let them raise fares to at least partially offset the higher fuel costs.

The OPEC majority called for a 10 per cent increase in January and about another 5 per cent in July.

In Washington, President Ford said the 11 OPEC members seeking the higher increase acted irresponsibly and that Saudi Arabia and its lone ally, the United Arab Emirates, had displayed a "sense of international responsibility and concern."

He said the others "ignored the destructive consequences of their actions... which can only be termed irresponsible."

On a visit to the United Nations headquarters in New York, U.S. Secretary of State-designate Cyrus Vance said he was "greatly pleased by the courageous and statesmanlike action" of Saudi Arabia and the Emirates.

He added he and President-elect Carter "will be sending a message to them expressing our appreciation."

The United States had conducted an intensive diplomatic campaign to warn of serious consequences to the world economy from an oil price increase. But Vance said no commitments were made to the Saudis to win their support for a moderate increase.

The OPEC majority issued a communique announcing the basic price of crude oil would go from $11.51 to $12.70 per barrel Jan. 1 and then to $13.30 next July 1 for a total increase of 15.5 per cent.

A 5 per cent increase would bring the standard price to $12.09 per barrel. Yamani told reporters, "We expect the West to appreciate what we did and especially the United States." He asked that this appreciation be shown in the so-called North-South dialogue at which poor countries demand more help from the rich, and in the Arab-Israeli conflict.

THE CRACK in OPEC was the first since the organization began the hard, unified pressure that more than quadrupled oil prices between late 1973 and early 1974. The price of $2.30 per barrel before the 1973 October Middle East War and its accompanying oil embargo rose to $10.46 by 1974. In October, 1975 a 10 per cent increase brought the price to the current $11.51 per barrel.

Yamani cautioned, "Don't be too happy in the West. OPEC continues to be strong. Saudi Arabia cannot live without OPEC and OPEC cannot live without Saudi Arabia."

Gov. Andrus tabbed for Interior Carter 'creating' Schlesinger job

By JAMES T. WOOTEN
New York Times Service

PLAINS — President-elect Jimmy Carter is expected to name Gov. Cecil D. Andrus of Idaho as his secretary of the interior today and has all but decided to ask Congress to create a new cabinet-level energy department, to be headed by James R. Schlesinger.

Andrus, the tall, baldish governor, whose face is familiar to millions of Americans because of his television commercials for Idaho potatoes, met with Carter at his home Friday and then checked into a motel in nearby Americus to await the news conference today at which his selection is expected to be announced.

The new energy department, according to sources within the environmental community, would combine the Federal Energy Administration and the Energy Research and Development Administration with similar functions of the Department of the Interior.

If Congress approves the proposal, the new agency will be called the Department of Energy and Resources, and Schlesinger, with Senate (Turn to Page A-5, Col. 1)

3 days after flu shot, paralysis began

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP)—It was the third morning after Karen O'Brien got her swine flu shot.

"I couldn't spit out my toothpaste," said the 30-year-old mother of two children. "I looked in the mirror. The right side of my face drooped. It looked like I had had a stroke. I couldn't close my right eye. My left eye drooped."

Mrs. O'Brien is one of nearly 35 million Americans who have taken the swine flu shot. She received her shot at a mass inoculation center in Arlington Heights at 6 p.m. on Sunday Nov. 14.

"On Monday I played tennis," she recalled. "I felt that my mouth was unusually dry. Tuesday morning I noticed a numbness in my mouth, mostly my tongue. Tuesday afternoon I noticed something wrong with my right eye, but I didn't know just what. It just bothered me. Then Wednesday morning I knew something definitely was happening to me."

Mrs. O'Brien was experiencing symptoms similar to the first stages of a temporary paralysis called Guillain-Barre syndrome. More than 100 cases of the disease had been reported by Friday, and six persons were dead. No firm link between the shots and the disease had been established, but the government's mass inoculation program was in hibernation, perhaps never to be revived, because of a possible link.

Mrs. O'Brien went to the emergency ward of Northwest Community Hospital that Wednesday morning. "I casually mentioned that I had had a swine flu shot that previous Sunday," she said. "They took skull X rays and blood tests and gave me some medicine. They couldn't find anything wrong."

Mrs. O'Brien said she had no idea at the time whether the problem was connected with her swine flu vaccination. She was not hospitalized, her condition was never formally diagnosed as Guillain-Barre syndrome and she never experienced the full crippling paralysis of the disease. She is no longer on medication, and the paralysis in her face is fading.

Gilmore making a rapid recovery from overdose

Combined News Services

Gary Gilmore's recovery from his second apparent suicide attempt is progressing more rapidly than expected, a spokesman for the Salt Lake City hospital treating the convicted Utah killer said Friday.

Authorities said they were still not sure where Gilmore got the drugs for the overdose he took Thursday.

He is believed to have taken phenobarbital, a depressant affecting the central nervous system. Utah State Prison Warden Sam Smith confirmed to reporters that the prisoner confined next to Gilmore's maximum-security cell was taking phenobarbital, but Smith said no conclusions had been reached.

Smith acknowledged that Gilmore told prison staff Wednesday he was going to "take some action." Asked if this was construed as a suicide threat, Smith said Gilmore had made similar statements numerous times.

Smith said he knew of no negligence on the part of the prison staff. He said it "would be physically possible for any inmate in that section to pass anything to any other inmate."

N.D. Hayward, the Salt Lake County sheriff's captain who is heading the investigation of the overdose, said an effective investigation was hindered by the quantity of drugs administered at the prison. He said the prisoner next to Gilmore.

Robert Belcher, was given three or four phenobarbital tablets a day.

Gilmore, scheduled to be executed by firing squad one month from Friday for killing a motel clerk in a robbery, was rushed to the University of Utah Medical Center after being found unconscious in his cell. Gilmore, who says he would rather be executed than spend much of his life in prison, has been critical of delays in his execution and took a drug overdose Nov. 16 in an apparent suicide pact with his girlfriend.

Wilbur Mills

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, who will end 38 years in Congress under the cloud of the Fanne Foxe affair, told a luncheon crowd Friday "whatever I did that did not meet with your favor was more depressing to me by far than it could have been to you."

He lost the chairmanship of the House Ways and Means Committee in December 1974 after disclosures earlier that year about his relationship with Miss Foxe, a stripper. Later, Mills also announced he was an alcoholic.

Nobody specifically mentioned Miss Foxe or alcoholism during the luncheon, but James B. Nichols, who introduced Mills, made an indirect reference.

The homestate audience applauded.

Ford views

Betty Ford would have preferred Vice President Nelson Rockefeller to Sen. Bob Dole as her husband's running mate in the Nov. 2 presidential election, according to an interview published this month.

The interview with President and Mrs. Ford was before the election and appears in McCall's magazine.

"Jerry surprised me by choosing Robert Dole," Mrs. Ford said. "I'd have preferred Nelson Rockefeller."

Rockefeller asked that he not be considered as the Republican vice presidential candidate.

Ford told interviewer Trude Feldman that, if he lost the election, "I'll blame only myself. I'm the one in charge, and I won't make excuses."

Mass. court strikes down abortion case conviction

The Massachusetts Supreme Court on Friday overturned the manslaughter conviction of Dr. Kenneth C. Edelin in the death of a fetus during a legal abortion. The landmark case had made physicians across the country reluctant to perform abortions after the first three months of pregnancy.

"It's been a long time getting to this day," Edelin told a news conference in Boston.

"This decision will relieve physicians in general who worry about sound medical judgments ending up as a criminal case," said Edelin, assistant director of obstetrics and gynecology at Boston City Hospital.

The state Supreme Court overturned his Feb. 15, 1975, conviction, saying Edelin had "no evil frame of mind, was actuated by no criminal purpose and committed no wanton or reckless act in carrying out the medical procedures on Oct. 3, 1973."

The prosecution at Edelin's trial had claimed he tried to asphyxiate the fetus inside the mother and did not try to save it after it

The abortion of a 20-to-24-week-old male fetus of a 17-year-old unmarried woman occurred after the U.S. Supreme Court legalized abortions but before Massachusetts enacted a new law of its own.

The state supreme court concurred in Edelin's defense that his prosecution was tantamount to the state second-guessing a physician's professional judgment.

"The manslaughter statute is flat... and it would be not only incongruous but, we think, unconstitutional to attempt to bring it to bear on a physician as he went about the pre-delivery process of performing an abortion," said the decision by Justice Benjamin Kaplan.

"Of course, manslaughter could not be supported by proof merely of a mistake of judgment, even if that was the result of negligence or gross negligence," the decision said. The jury had been told it could convict Edelin only on the basis of actions he took after the birth.

Israel asks U.S. help to delay peace talks

Combined News Services

JERUSALEM — Israel has asked the United States to use its influence on U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim and persuade him to slow down his efforts to reconvene the Geneva conference on the Middle East next year.

Reliable sources said that Israel has told Washington that efforts by Waldheim to spur the Geneva talks rather than wait until the Carter administration is able to tackle the issue are likely to prove counter-productive and could even delay the reconvening of the conference.

An Egyptian-sponsored resolution, adopted last week by the U.N. General Assembly over Israeli and U.S. opposition calls on Waldheim to begin consultations toward returning to Geneva and to report to the Security Council by March 1. The resolution said the conference must start by the end of March.

Israel reiterated that the Jewish state will boycott Geneva if the Palestine Liberation Organization, which Waldheim is also sounding out, participates in the negotiations.

Kidnapers spurned

MADRID, Spain — The government rejected a demand by the radical left-wing kidnapers of a chief aide to King Juan Carlos that all of Spain's estimated 250 political prisoners be freed.

The refusal was announced Friday night over national television by Interior Minister Rodolfo Martin Villa at two minutes before the stepped-up deadline set by the kidnapers.

A note directed to the newspaper El Pais and found in a nearby tavern said the kidnap victim, Antonio Maria de Oriol, would be killed if the prisoners were not released.

There was no word on Oriol's fate as the deadline passed. The 63-year-old conservative industrialist was abducted Dec. 11.

China industry meet

TOKYO — China is preparing to convene a national industrial conference to overcome delays in modernization plans, Peking's official Hsinhua news agency reported today.

Preparations for the industrial conference followed the second national agricultural conference that opened Dec. 10 in Peking with 5,000 representatives from various parts of the country.

The industrial and agricultural modernization programs laid down by the late Premier Chou En-lai at the 1975 National People's Congress reportedly have been delayed because of political turmoil between moderates and radicals within the Chinese leadership.

Beirut paper seized

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Syrian soldiers seized the building of the only leftist newspaper remaining in Beirut Friday as the feud between rival Baath Socialist parties ruling Iraq and Syria threatened to reignite Lebanon's civil war.

Beirut and the northern port city of Tripoli shook once more with explosions and gunfire until dawn as pro-Syrian and pro-Iraqi Palestinian guerrillas battled in their camps adjacent to the cities.

The flareup was described by officials as the worst breach of the cease-fire since Syrian troops ended the 19-month civil war in mid-November. They said dozens of persons were killed and wounded but the exact number was not known.

Argentina killings

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — Security forces killed 13 persons suspected of being left-wing guerrillas in scattered clashes throughout Argentina in the past 24 hours, government sources reported Friday.

They said seven suspects were slain early Friday when soldiers and policemen raided hideouts in a Buenos Aires suburb and the cities of La Plata and Rosario.

The government announced that two persons died of injuries suffered in a bomb blast at a Defense Ministry movie theater Wednesday, raising the death toll from the explosion to 11.

Man free after slay trials-without-bodies

ST. JOSEPH, Mich. — After seven months in jail on charges of murdering two women whose bodies were never found, Gerald Libertowski is a free man.

District Court Judge Ronald Taylor on Friday dismissed a charge of first-degree murder against Libertowski.

Libertowski had been charged with first-degree murder in the disappearance of his former girlfriend, Janis Sanders, 25, of Niles, Mich. In August, he was acquitted of murder charges in the disappearance of another former friend, Janice Langs, 21, of South Bend, Ind.

In dismissing the Michigan case, Judge Taylor ruled that the prosecution "at this point has failed to establish a crime or that the defendant committed a crime."

Libertowski, a South Bend contractor, was arrested last April by Indiana authorities in the 1973 disappearance of Miss Langs, whose crushed car was found at a junkyard belonging to the brother of Myron Hunsberger, a former business associate of Libertowski.

Hunsberger later became the chief witness against Libertowski, claiming he had tried to destroy the woman's car to protect the defendant.

Libertowski, who steadfastly proclaimed his innocence in both cases, accused Hunsberger of killing both women.

Ex-Rep. convicted

WASHINGTON — Former Rep. James F. Hastings, R-N.Y., was convicted by a U.S. District Court jury Friday night on charges that he accepted salary kickbacks from two part-time employees in his congressional district.

The jury acquitted Hastings on a charge of filing false statements with the House Finance Office in order to obtain a pay increase for a secretary in his Washington office and accept kickbacks from her.

U.S. District Judge June L. Green said she would sentence Hastings on Jan. 21. He could receive up to five years in prison plus a fine on each count.

Hastings, 50, resigned last January after seven years in Congress to head a New York state trade association.

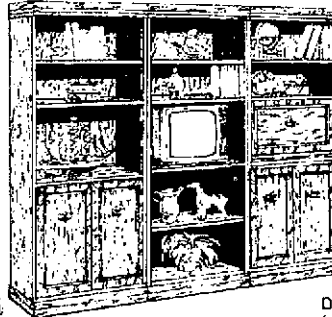

Canal suit rejected

PANCON, Panama Canal Zone — A U.S. district court judge rejected on Friday a suit that sought to prevent further negotiations over the Panama Canal. U.S. District Judge Guthrie F. Crowe said he did not have the authority to order President Ford, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and U.S. Special Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker before his court.

A suit filed by a Canal Zone policeman and later joined by six U.S. congressmen asked that Ford, Kissinger and Bunker be restrained from negotiating a new treaty. The plaintiffs opposed any negotiated lessening of U.S. sovereignty over the canal.

First 'accident' ruling given in Metro deaths

By JANICE NELSON
Staff Writer

A coroner's jury ruling Friday that the death of a Long Beach man at the Norwalk Metropolitan State Hospital was accidental was the first such decision since inquests into mysterious deaths at the hospital began in November.

Deaths of three other Metropolitan patients have been ruled "death at the hands of another, other than by accident," in recent months by coroner's juries. Homicide investigations are going on.

IN A 7-2 decision in Friday's case, the jury ruled that Silas Brown Jr., 42, died of self-inflicted stab wounds received prior to admission to the hospital. Two jurors dissented in the accident verdict.

Brown died Nov. 20 after collapsing while taking a shower.

A physician at St. Mary Medical Center in Long Beach, where Brown initially was taken, testified to treating the wounds Nov. 14, before Brown was transferred to Metropolitan.

Jury verdicts on other deaths at Metropolitan include one of "other than accidental" on Raymond Vann, 36, of Long Beach.

Vann was found strapped to a bed in a somersault position by a psychiatric technician who said "his neck was touch-

Unlicensed marriage

I have heard about a reverend who performs weddings, and he doesn't require the couple to have a marriage license or blood tests. He charges only $20 and, if this is legal, I'm interested. Can Action Line advise me? A.W., Avalon.

Under Section 4213 of the California Civil Code, unmarried adults who have been living together as husband and wife in this state can get married by a clergyman without obtaining a marriage license or getting blood tests. Until 1972, the record of such a marriage was kept only at the church where the ceremony was performed, but, since then, the clergyman must file a certificate of marriage with the county clerk. Such certificates are not public records, as other conventional marriage documents are, and, consequently, section 4213 often is referred to as the secret marriage law. The statute, which has been in effect since the late 1880s, originally was enacted so that a couple, thought by the community to be married, could wed later without applying for a license, which would be a public record, and avoid embarrassing themselves or their children. One problem with this type of marriage is that the husband or wife must appear at the clerk's office to get certified copies of the marriage certificate. Such copies may be needed later for various reasons, such as applying for Social Security benefits. Couples with marriage licenses, which are public records, can obtain copies by mail.

order special precautions to prevent the suicide of a Los Angeles carpenter, Ralph Cabuto, was indicted on a charge of neglecting his duty toward an insane person. The charge is a misdemeanor.

In the other indictment, psychiatric technician Vern Witham was charged with two counts of conspiracy to obstruct justice and two counts of being an accessory after the fact in the crime of manslaughter. Both charges are felonies.

Witham was one of several hospital employees involved in restraining a violent patient, Clarence Cormier, who subsequently died. Another technician, Dean Aguirre, had said at first—as did Witham and other technicians—that he had seen no one "choke" Cormier. He later admitted he had used a stranglehold on Cormier.

The indictment of Witham on conspiracy charges indicated that indictment of others involved in the Cormier incident was likely.

The death of Cormier, a black community worker from Watts, had been investigated in 1974, at which time the district attorney's office decided not to prosecute. Deputy Dist. Atty. Michael Bradbury said that at the time, the choking of the violent Cormier did not seem to constitute a prosecutable offense.

Crosswalk

I drive my son to and from Gahr High School in Cerritos because there are no crosswalks on Artesia Boulevard between Studebaker Road and Gridley Street. Hundreds of students cross Artesia there, and I see near misses all the time. I recently saw a boy hit and slightly hurt by a motorcycle. There should be at least two crosswalks there. Could Action Line look into this hazardous situation? Mrs. F.A., Cerritos.

The city of Cerritos plans to install a traffic light at Artesia and Alora Avenue, which is between Studebaker and Gridley, to enable the high school students to cross the street safely. The city currently is waiting for delivery of the signal control unit, and the traffic light should be installed and operating within the next two months, according to Thomas Lopez of the city's engineering department. He said that since Artesia between Gridley and Studebaker is a major thoroughfare with lots of fast traffic and no other cross streets, it would be unsafe to paint a crosswalk there without a traffic light.

Model

Several months ago I bought a car, and the salesman told me it was a 1973 model, but my friends insist it's a 1972. Is there any way I can find out when this car was made? If it's older than I was told, I should be paying less for it and I'd like to know what I can do about it. H.B., Long Beach.

If you believe that the model year listed on the car's pink slip is incorrect, you can file a complaint with the California Department of Motor Vehicles, and an investigator will determine by the car's serial number when it was manufactured. When a person registers a car, the DMV records the model year based on the information on the sales receipt. It is illegal for a dealer to falsify model year information, and if the DMV finds that a company has done this, disciplinary action can be taken against the firm. "If we feel it was an isolated clerical error, we usually will take no action, but if we find a pattern of such mistakes, we can take steps to suspend or revoke the company's license," said a DMV spokesman. The department, however, cannot force a dealer to make restitution to a customer if a car has been misrepresented, but a DMV investigation frequently will prompt a dealer to refund some money on his own. If your car's model year was misrepresented, and the dealer refuses to refund any money, your only recourse would be to file a civil suit against the company. You can do this in small claims court without the aid of an attorney if you sue for less than $500. This limit will rise to $750 Jan. 1.

ing the footboard, as were his nose and chin. His chest and arms were extended toward the ceiling. His legs were dangling inches above the floor."

The technician said Vann was held on the bed only by the leather restraints placed around his wrists the previous night. He died of "cardio-respiratory insufficiency due to hyperextension of the neck."

John Mulik, 37, of Bellflower, succumbed to a massive overdose of a depressant drug last April 22, and this, too, was attributed to someone else's act, a coroner's jury decided Nov. 9.

THE ONLY ENTRY on Mulik's medical chart indicated he received 50 mg. of the drug, chlorpromazine, on the night he entered the state hospital, a full week before his death.

A coroner's inquest jury determined Sept. 16 that Mark Frank Holcolm, 19, of Garden Grove died due to negligence. An autopsy report showed that he choked to death on his own vomit.

A county pathologist who performed the autopsy on Holcolm said the vomiting could have been triggered by a blow on his head, and that a cut on his forehead was caused by a blunt instrument similar to flashlights hospital personnel use to check on patients at night.

Arms probe focuses on elusive 'front man'

Authorities said Friday that more than nine tons of buried guns and explosives discovered recently now are thought to be from two unrelated collections and that a shadowy "front man" is still being sought in the larger case. Criminal files throughout the country are being studied in hopes of finding a Jeff Martin, for whom Donald Wiggins of Ontario says he was storing some eight tons of weapons.

owner of a gun shop in Glendale. Stringer's mountain cabin near Wrightwood in San Bernardino County was raided Tuesday, and a large quantity of weapons and ammunition was found.

During the Wiggins investigation, an informant led police to Stringer, who is charged with one count of possessing destructive devices.

Stringer turned himself in to deputies Friday at the sheriff's substation in Victorville, also in San Bernardino County, according to a prearranged agreement. He was arraigned and a preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 26, and he was released on $10,000 bail.

WIGGINS, his mother, Edna Methe, and her husband, Arthur Methe Sr., also were arrested this week on weapons charges in San Bernardino County after a quantity of illegal arms was discovered at their Ontario home in that county. The elder Methe collapsed and died of an apparent heart attack shortly after being arrested.

Attorney H. George Taylor, representing Wiggins and the younger Methé at Friday's arraignment, said the defense may ask the public to help locate the mysterious Jack Martin. Wiggins has said he was obligated by a $17,000 loan from Martin to store the arms for him.

Taylor said a fading paramilitary organization—several were active in Southern California in the 1960s—or a "quiet group of rich men" who owned the weapons had sent Martin as a "front man" to arrange storage by Wiggins.

Taylor said his clients "travel in these esoteric circles" where they might have come into contact with Martin. Wiggins is known to have been interested in such pursuits as panning for gold, beekeeping and UFOs.

GROTON, Conn. (AP)—Thirty crew members from two Polaris missile submarines were dismissed from submarine duty last summer on charges of using marijuana on board, the Navy said Friday.

KKK Marines probed on ties to extremists

By FRED HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson said Friday that Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld has agreed to investigate possible links between Ku Klux Klan members in the Marines and civilian right-wing paramilitary groups.

Jackson, a civil rights leader, raised the possibility of such a connection during an hour-long Pentagon meeting with Rumsfeld, defense general counsel Richard Wiley and other senior officials.

He also urged that 14 black Marines charged with assault on white Marines at Camp Pendleton last month be tried together instead of singly. Wiley indicated sympathy toward that proposal, the civil rights leader said.

Jackson urged that the blacks be allowed civilian lawyers instead of being limited to what he called "a bunch of rookie" military attorneys assigned by the service.

He acknowledged that the Marines who allegedly were attacked in their barracks last month were not Klan members.

"It is unfortunate that innocent men" were involved in the fight, Jackson said, but he added that "it is even more unfortunate" that black men were provoked by what he said was a hostile environment.

Workers lose me duty

He said 29 crew members were implicated in the case. Of those, 15 received non-judicial punishment and two were disqualified from sub duty without punishment, he said.

The spokesman also said 13 sailors aboard the USS Thomas Jefferson, then based in Charleston, S.C., were disqualified in June.

while 16 Marine members of the Ku Klux Klan, uncovered after the November incident, are being transferred.

Jackson claimed that, at times of racial unrest several years ago, blacks were disciplined simply on suspicion they belonged to the Black Panthers or the Muslims, or because they

"The total burden is on the backs of the blacks," Jackson charged.

Jackson noted that California police recently uncovered a large arms cache believed to have been gathered by a right-wing group.

Although Jackson offered no evidence of a linkup, he said one of the Marine Ku Klux Klan members had been found to have a hidden pistol and he suggested there might be a connection.

Jackson objected to

Pentagon policy which does not bar membership in the Klan. He contended the Klan is "subversive" and that military commanders should exercise discretionary authority to deal with groups that endanger military order and combat readiness by disrupting relations between blacks and whites.

Superports to serve supertankers

Combined News Services

WASHINGTON — "Superports" — giant offshore platforms linked to land by buried pipelines — will eventually enable giant oil tankers to unload their cargoes without having to come closer to shore.

The first two deepwater ports, to be located 20 to 25 miles off the coast of Texas and Louisiana in the Gulf of Mexico, will permit oil importers to use the massive supertankers which now cannot get into conventional U.S. ports with oil refineries.

The construction of the superports was approved Friday by Transportation Secretary William Coleman, who said he included in the building permits "tough environmental conditions that will require the licensees to do all they can to minimize the environmental impact of their projects."

Coleman, in overriding the objections of environmentalists and some antitrust experts, insisted that the Gulf Coast actually would be better off with the superports than without them because the current arrangement, under which deep-draft oil tankers are unloaded at sea into smaller ships, presents a greater threat of oil spills.

These supertankers require at least 100 feet of water depth to operate and take nearly three miles to turn around. Few U.S. ports can handle a ship that draws more than 45 to 55 feet of water.

Coleman said the superports would allow the U.S. to preserve domestic oil reserves and permit the country to respond to an energy crisis more efficiently. He also predicted that use of the very large oil tankers would reduce the transportation cost of importing oil by up to 30 per cent.

The Louisiana superport, which with its many hoses and pipes will look like an octopus when seen from above, will be located 18 miles from Grande Isle, La., and will be owned by a consortium consisting of Ashland Oil, Marathon Oil, Murphy Oil, Shell Oil, Texaco and Union Oil of California.

The first phase of construction will cost $350 million and will be able to unload 1.3 million barrels of oil per day. The finished port will cost $738 million and will be able to unload 3.4 million barrels daily.

The Texas port will be located 26 miles southeast of Freeport, Tex., and will be owned by a group consisting of Cities Service, Continental Oil, Crown-Central Petroleum Co., Dow Chemical, Exxon Co. U.S.A., Gulf, Mobil Oil, Phillips and Shell.

Coleman found that superports would reduce the risk of oil spills during unloading, during shipment and because of collisions in harbors.

Nevertheless he ordered steps taken to protect the environment and required the oil and chemical companies that plan to build the two ports to agree in writing that they would assume all liabilities from any oil spills that might occur.

The applications which Coleman approved were the only ones he has received since Congress passed the Deep Water Ports Act of 1974 that set the machinery in motion.

Any future applications would have to go through the same environmental impact studies and licensing procedures before construction could start. The decision is still subject to court challenge.

Parole denied to Joan Little

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Parole has been denied for Joan Little, 22, the black woman acquitted of murder last year in the death of a white jailer.

Miss Little is serving a 7-to-10-year sentence for breaking and entering in 1974. She was being held in the rural Beaufort County jail while that conviction was on appeal when she killed her jailer, Clarence Allegood, with an ice pick.

During her five-week trial in the summer of 1975, Miss Little testified that she stabbed the jailer in self-defense while he was sexually assaulting her. She was the only female in the jail at the time. After stabbing Allegood repeatedly, she fled and turned herself in to state officials several days later.

The case drew international attention and civil rights groups used it as an example of what they called mistreatment of women and blacks in jails. A movie of Miss Little's life is now in the works.

Jack Seism, chairman of the parole commission, said the board denied her parole late Thursday. She had disobeyed a prison official last July and was involved in a fight with another inmate the same month, he said.

In addition, Seism said, Miss Little's breaking and entering arrest came while she was free on probation from a shoplifting conviction.

"We wanted to see how she handled minimum custody activities before releasing her," Seism said. Minimum custody activities include work-release, community passes and home leaves.

Miss Little, who will again be eligible for parole consideration in nine months, did not appear before the panel Thursday. She had been interviewed by one of the members.

CARTER PICK

confirmation, will become its first secretary, the sources said. He is a former defense secretary.

It would be the first new cabinet department since Congress created the Department of Transportation in 1968.

Spokesmen for the president-elect declined to confirm the reports. Nevertheless, Andrus smilingly accepted congratulations on his appointment and immediately called his wife.

Moreover, sources in the Carter transition camp in Washington disclosed Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Committee on the Interior, gave his blessings to the creation of the new department when he met with Carter here Wednesday.

The senator also told the president-elect that he saw no substantial problem in having such a proposal enacted by Congress, the sources said, and expressed a strong desire to Carter to see Schlesinger in some cabinet position in the incoming administration.

THE SPATE of decisions here over the last two days seemed to be not only an acceleration of Carter's personnel and organizational preparations but also to reflect an energy and environmental theme.

After meeting with Jackson on Wednesday — a session in which, according to the senator, reorganization of the energy bureaucracy was the chief topic of conversation — the president-elect spoke at length with representatives of several environmental groups and, according to other sources, raised with them the concept of the new energy department.

Similarly, the discussions with Andrus Friday were believed to have included Carter's explanation to him of the new department, its effect on the scope of responsibilities at the Interior Department and the governor's response to such an arrangement.

But, as the president-elect began putting together the pieces for the new department, citizen energy groups began expressing their opposition to Schlesinger's proposed role.

"Critical Mass," a publication of Ralph Nader's consumer-oriented organization, sent Carter a letter signed by representatives of various environmental groups expressing "dismay" over the proposed selection.

Similarly, Rep. John F. Seiberling, the Ohio Democrat who serves on the House subcommittee on energy and environment, joined Friday with eight other congressmen in a letter to Carter protesting Schlesinger's possible appointment.

Although Seiberling declined to release the contents of the letter, the opposition to Schlesinger is generally based on criticism of his advocacy of nuclear breeder reactors and his record as head of the now-defunct Atomic Energy Commission.

IT IS NOT known how far the president-elect has pushed his proposal, but it is believed that he has persuaded Schlesinger to accept the new post if Congress creates it.

Schlesinger and Carter met for the first time here in September after Schlesinger returned from a trip to China. The president-elect, it is said, was impressed by Schlesinger's knowledge and by his ideas on energy and national resources.

So positive was Schlesinger's impact on Carter that there was a tentative decision then to ask him to serve in some capacity if Carter won the presidency, according to sources.

Brooke calls ethics effort 'frustrating'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Describing his service on the Senate Ethics Committee as "a very frustrating experience," Sen. Edward Brooke announced Friday that he would press for changes that would strengthen the panel and impose a stricter code of conduct on the Senate.

In disclosing his plans, the Massachusetts Republican said the American people have lost confidence in Congress.

Simon kills move to tax employees' fringe benefits

By G. DAVID WALLACE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon has killed a government move to collect taxes on fringe benefits provided free to employees, sources said Friday.

The proposal triggered a storm of protests from people in occupations as diverse as auto salesmen, airline employees and clothing sales clerks.

THE FRINGE benefits, such as travel for airline workers and discounts on clothing for sales clerks, represented an estimated $100 million in potential taxes.

The government has already moved to collect taxes on the free tuition of university employees, and there is no assurance that Simon's action forever prevents taxation of fringe benefits.

But sources said the move will leave most fringe benefits untaxed for at least the near future.

Simon's action involved two things.

First, he announced publicly that Treasury is withdrawing a proposed general statement of principles on dealing with taxation of free fringe benefits. The rule would have exempted from taxation only those benefits which cost an employer nothing and which are available to all employees.

Second, Simon privately killed about a dozen proposed revenue rulings which would have required certain people to pay taxes on benefits which are now tax-free, sources said.

THE proposed rulings would have taxed, among other things, the airline transportation, discounts for store employees, the use of demonstrator cars by salesmen for certain personal purposes and free education provided by American corporations for employees stationed overseas.

THE TWO moves had been presented by Simon as options on the issue. But by rejecting both options, he left current tax policy just where it was.

Simon said, "I have concluded that such a general statement is not appropriate. Rather, the question of whether fringe benefits result in taxable compensation to employees should continue to depend, as it presently does, on the facts and circumstances that exist in individual situations."

Theoretically, Simon's statement left the door open for case-by-case moves either through proposed hearings and regulations or revenue rulings made by the Treasury Department.

BUT James Byrne, director of Tax Analysis and Advocates Study Group, said the mass rejection of the revenue rulings means there is little likelihood of further action on specific items.

JOSE RODRIGUEZ explains proposed land reforms to peasants on march Friday in protest at "failure" of Mexican government program.

Land-reform radical leads Mexico peasants on march

By CHARLES GREEN

JUAN JOSE RIOS, Mexico (AP) — A bearded Mexican radical, who claims government land-reform programs have failed, is leading a ragged band of peasants on a 1,000-mile protest march toward Mexico City.

Jose Rodriguez, 38, admits his "National Protest March" is idealistic and may never reach the capital.

"We are going to try our best because we feel obligated to protest," Rodriguez said as his handful of followers rested under a tree in the dusty plaza of Juan Jose Rios village in northwestern Mexico.

"WE ARE a small number now because people are scared away by threats," he said. "Only the brave are here. All the cowards are gone."

Rodriguez is leader of the Independent Workers and Peasants Central which he claims traces its roots to Mexican revolutionary Emiliano Zapata, whose slogan "Land and Liberty" was the battle cry in a 1910 revolution for land reform.

Rodriguez said the organization does not believe in armed revolution, but does insist that Mexican politics need changing.

The march originated in Los Mochis, where about 150 people camped on a roadside last Wednesday night. They started their march at daybreak Thursday, averaging about three miles an hour as they trudged along the right-hand shoulder of the international highway south toward the Sinaloa state capital of Culiacan.

AT THAT pace it would take more than a month to walk to Mexico City.

Rodriguez wore a sport shirt and slacks as he led the marchers.

He plans demonstrations in towns along the way and expects to pick up more followers as they march. He doesn't think, however, the total will ever reach the 6,000 or 7,000 he first predicted.

The group is protesting a recent court decision that overruled a presidential expropriation of almost 250,000 acres of farm and ranch land in Sonora state. The members want the right to private land ownership reduced from the present 250 acres per person to 50 acres and demand that 1.5 million acres of rich farmland in Sinaloa be taken from private owners and made into communal farms for 51,000 peasants.

The band, about a dozen of them women, wore ragged clothes. Some marchers were barefoot; others wore sandals or rubber shower slippers.

After President Luis Echeverria expropriated the land in Sonora, peasants invaded private land in neighboring Sinaloa state hoping that those lands also would be expropriated. Their leaders agreed later to leave the land until after Echeverria left office Dec. 1 in order to assure a peaceful change of national government with the inauguration of Jose Lopez Portillo as president. A few days later a district court judge overruled the Sonora expropriation.

Safety panel hit on perilous toys

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many toys are still hazardous for children, despite passage of a federal toy-safety law seven years ago, the chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee said Friday.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., accused the Consumer Product Safety Commission of failing to meet "its toy-safety responsibilities for this holiday season, just as it failed to establish effective fireworks regulations for the past July 4 celebration."

A commission spokesman disputed Magnuson's claim, saying toys are safer now than ever.

Magnuson said more than 150,000 children are treated each year in hospital emergency rooms for toy-related injuries. And he complained that regulations proposed in March 1973 for small toy parts, and others proposed in January 1975 concerning sharp edges and points, have yet to be made final.

He also accused the commission of "an apparent lack of systematic monitoring of the marketplace for hazardous toys during the past year."

The commission spokesman, Charles E. Flinner, said the proposed regulations referred to by Magnuson should be put in force early next year. He said the commission has removed many unsafe toys from the market, has established regulations covering toys that run on electricity, and is continually monitoring the market for unsafe toys.

Many manufacturers over the past years have made their toys safer knowing that if they didn't the products would be ordered recalled by the commission, he said.

The 'child' is daughter to her man

WESTERLY, R.I. (AP) — Elaine Ivy Tattersall has taken Joseph A. Comolli as her lawfully adopted father.

The Westerly couple decided to take a new approach to cohabitation. Instead of marriage or simply living together, the man has adopted the woman as his daughter.

Comolli, 33, adopted Miss Tattersall, 32, in Westerly's Probate Court this week. Her parents are still alive.

The town clerk's office said the adoption of Miss Tattersall was legal because "she is of age and can be adopted by whomever she chooses."

Assassination panel wants answers

800 points raised on JFK, King

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Committee on Assassinations' draft report says there are 800 unanswered questions surrounding the deaths of President John F. Kennedy and Dr. Martin Luther King, according to Delegate Walter Fauntroy, D-D.C., Friday.

Fauntroy said that 600 unanswered questions involve the 1968 slaying of King and 200 questions relate to the 1963 murder of Kennedy.

The 12-member assassination panel went into closed session Friday to consider the draft report which Chairman Thomas Downing, D-Va., said contains no sensitive information.

The 20-page report will be used to justify the committee's upcoming request for a one-year, $6.5 million budget. The full House will be asked to approve the budget when Congress convenes in January.

In an interview before the closed session, Fauntroy, chairman of the subcommittee investigating the King murder, cited the following examples of unanswered questions he said needed to be investigated:

—Why was James Earl Ray, who pleaded guilty to killing King, not questioned about his statement that he disagreed with assertions by his own attorney and the prosecution that no conspiracy was involved?

—What did Ray tell his defense lawyers that led them to believe he acted alone?

—How did Ray pay for his flight to Europe following the murder of King?

—How can a fellow be sophisticated enough to get three passports yet not be bright enough to get out of a building without dropping a gun with his fingerprints on it?

—If King were under "such great surveillance" by the FBI as previously documented by the Senate Intelligence Committee, "where were they" at the time of his death?

—Why was a black police sergeant in charge of providing security for King in Memphis sent home just before the shooting?

All of the questions have been raised in public before.

Fauntroy, who had a copy of the draft report in front of him as he spoke, did not give examples of unanswered questions in the Kennedy assassination.

But it is known the committee is concentrating on certain questions involving CIA surveillance of Lee Harvey Oswald in Mexico City two months before Kennedy's assassination.

Fauntroy, who was one of six members voting to keep secret the committee's deliberations on the draft report, said all 800 questions were not listed in the draft. Instead, he said, the draft reports states the over-all number and lists various areas in which the unanswered questions exist.

Fauntroy also assured a reporter that an actual list of the 800 questions exists.

Kelley says it again, he has no intention of resigning

By JOSEPH VOLZ
Knight News Service

WASHINGTON — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley said Friday he would not resign, despite reports that President-elect Jimmy Carter had asked someone else to take the post.

The Los Angeles Times said Federal District Judge Frank M. Johnson of Montgomery, Ala., had been offered the post but turned it down for financial reasons.

JOHNSON later denied he had been offered any job in the new administration, although he conferred with Carter in Plains, Ga., last Monday "about cabinet appointments at his (Carter's) invitation."

Kelley, on the other hand, has sought unsuccessfully for several weeks to meet with Carter.

The latest development is the surest sign so far that Carter definitely will replace Kelley, the first career FBI agent to run the bureau since J. Edgar Hoover's death in May, 1972.

Kelley, who has not held a press conference since August, instructed his press aides to re-issue a previous statement he made when asked about reports of Carter offering the FBI job to Johnson.

IN THAT statement, first made two weeks ago, Kelley said he had "no intention" of resigning, and viewed any resignation which would permit Carter to install his own choice at the FBI as politicizing the directorship. "This would violate what I consider a matter of principle," his statement said.

Kelley aides held out the possibility that the director might remain in office during the Carter administration until a nominee for his job is confirmed by the Senate, which could take weeks or months. Kelley serves at the pleasure of the president and could conceivably be fired by Carter, although that seems unlikely.

Meantime, Kelley's position received a boost from Los Angeles Police Chief Edwin Davis, who heads the International Association of Chiefs of Police. Davis said that the forced departure of any federal law enforcement officials now would "tend to throw the agencies into the political arena."

Hoover was FBI director for 48 years through Democratic and Republican administrations. After his death, Congress made the FBI job subject to Senate confirmation, and former President Nixon tried without success to win acceptance of his nominee as Hoover's successor, L. Patrick Gray III.

Kelley, a former FBI agent who had served as police chief of Kansas City, Mo., was nominated for the post in June 1973 and was confirmed by the Senate a month later.

Kids off school can thank devil

CLINTWOOD, Va. (AP) — Rumors that a cult of devil worshipers is seeking a human sacrifice have prompted some parents to keep their children home from a Dickenson County elementary school.

Sheriff Edward Fleming said Friday that deputies found nothing to substantiate the rumors that were spread on citizens' band radios.

The reports, however, frightened many parents into keeping their children home from school Thursday and Friday. Some parents took their children out of classrooms. The most widely heard rumor apparently was that the human sacrifice would be a child who would be kidnapped from a school.

Fleming said 137 children were absent from the Sattliff Elementary School Thursday and 77 on Friday.

"Normal absenteeism is between 30 and 35," Fleming said. "The principal seems to think the rumor does have a little influence, but that things are getting back to normal."

FTC probes effect of TV games on tube

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission said Friday its staff is looking into the possibility that popular television video games may leave a permanent imprint on TV tubes.

A spokesman emphasized that the probe by the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection is extremely preliminary at this point and that the commission has taken no formal action on the issue.

Blast scene like battle zone

It looked like a battle zone.

The explosion tossed huge pipes which buried themselves in the asphalt for hundreds of yards at the dock where a tanker exploded Friday night.

Windows shattered as far as half a dozen miles away.

Looters stole from unprotected stores in San Pedro while store owners along Pacific Avenue frantically boarded up windows.

And Harold Crozier's 73-foot sportfishing boat was blown out from under him while berthed in dry dock a thousand feet from the exploding ship. The 72-year-old Hawthorne man was uninjured.

"My boat was closest to the one that exploded," Crozier recounted minutes later. "I was watching television in my cabin. I saw a flash. I hit the deck. Half of it (my boat) is demolished. An 8-inch diameter pipe cut the cabin like a knife."

Crozier was uninjured.

but half his boat was destroyed and littered by glass shards and other debris.

He ran for safety. "The asphalt on the dock was on fire," he said.

His boat, called PT-73, was used on the old "McHale's Navy" television show. It was in dry dock at San Pedro Boat Works.

Crozier said it appeared that the huge ship was preparing to leave just before the explosion.

"I was washing my dishes at about 7 p.m. and looked out the window," he said. "The Sansinena had turned on its floodlights, and I figured it was preparing to leave the dock."

Earlier in the day, the ship unloaded its petroleum cargo and took on ballast water to stabilize the vessel for the sea voyage, Crozier recalled.

At about 7:45, he saw the flash.

"I've never seen an explosion (before this), but I knew one was coming," the witness recounted.

"There was no hesitation; the middle of the ship caved in. Nobody aboard was gone."

A few witnesses thought the great California earthquake had arrived. "I expected to feel another shock wave," said one woman at Ports of Call Village in San Pedro.

service center at 1499 W. First St., San Pedro, to offer aid to victims of the blast.

Fred Crawford, general manager of the port of Los Angeles, said the entire midsection of the ship was "virtually gone" after the explosion.

He said only jagged edges of metal were remaining from the midsection. The stern and bow were left at acute angles.

"I WAS about a mile away in my apartment above Cabrillo Beach at the time of the explosion," Crawford said. "It was more severe than a sonic boom. I ran to my window and saw a huge fireball going up into the sky."

Most of the crewmembers of the ship spoke only Italian and it was difficult to piece their stories together.

LIGHTS went out, "and everybody started screaming and crying," recalled the patron. "Everybody was looking for matches."

Two Ports of Call employees, Philip Hilliard and Jim Smith, said they were drinking a cup of coffee at a bakery when "the shock waves knocked us to our knees." Smith required 15 stitches to sew up a face cut.

Large plate glass windows were cracked six miles away from the explosion.

The blast blew out a plate glass window at the Volunteers of America store at Sixth Street and Pine Avenue in Long Beach.

Only reporters and news photographers were allowed past a command post set up several blocks from the burning ship. At the scene, a concrete road running parallel to the dock was pitted with chunks of metal and a chain link fence was threaded with pieces of pipe, all appearing to have been tossed from the force of the ship explosion.

Fire fighters in asbestos suits, some covered with oil, aimed hoses on the fire which skyrocketed hundreds of yards into the air as dense smoke blew toward land. Four police helicopters hovered overhead, illuminating the area with lights.

MEANWHILE, fire boats sprayed ocean water on the ship. About 15 fire trucks assisted, using fresh water, while dozens of other fire-fighting units stood by near the command post.

A Coast Guard spokesman said a 15-man Pacific Strike Team was being flown in from San Francisco to assist efforts to control oil spills and debris from the ship.

The Red Cross set up a

One newsman was booked for interfering with a police officer.

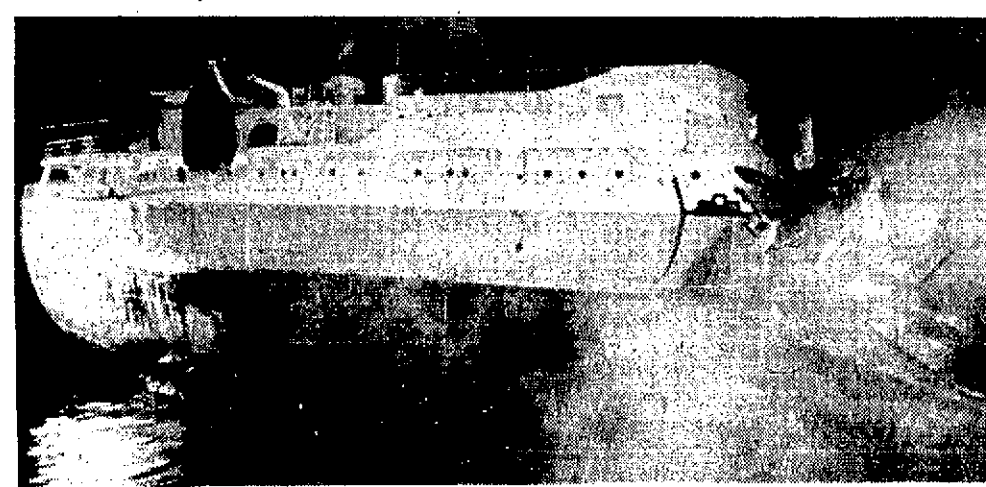

Looters were reported to be loading pickup trucks with merchandise from stores in San Pedro and Wilmington.

Traffic in the area was rerouted, with lanes inbound toward the harbor area closed to non-emergency vehicles.

Officials at San Pedro and Peninsula Hospital said about 30 San Pedro residents were treated for lacerations. Injured victims from the dock area were taken to several nearby hospitals and many were treated at the scene. Officials said at least 49 persons were injured but the toll could go much higher when all area hospitals are checked.

Kathy Valenza of San Pedro, a relative of a crew member believed to have died in the blast, identified him as Emanuel Argiolo. He was last seen by other crewmen disappearing into the flames, she said.

FLU

"The corner of my mouth still droops, and my left eye droops now and then," she said. "I can close my right eye. The numbness in my mouth comes and goes."

"I've tried to think positive through this whole thing," she said. But still, she added, there is a tingling sensation at times in her hands and legs, and it is not her imagination.

In Washington, Dr. Theodore Cooper, assistant secretary for health in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said Friday that the current suspension of the swine flu immunization program could spell its "death knell," but stated that he believed the program should be resumed even if there was a risk of the shots causing paralytic illness.

Dr. Cooper said it could take a month or more to determine if the vaccine was connected with the paralytic disease.

IN ANOTHER case, Clara Ruth Jarrett, 48, of Madison, Ala., complained of a sore back 12 days after being inoculated against swine flu. She died one month later after becoming almost completely paralyzed.

Her husband said she went into the hospital three days after complaining of pains in her back and legs.

"Two days later, she was able to move only her fingers and to talk a little. It gradually paralyzed her almost completely. She could move her fingers, maybe her toes and her head," George Jarrett said.

"Then it attacked her breathing. She had to have breathing equipment and a tube in her throat."

OTHERS WHO experienced the Guillain-Barre syndrome said the first sign was a numbness of the mouth.

Norma Murr of Indianapolis was vaccinated against swine flu on Oct. 29. Thirteen days later the numbness began.

Chile, Russia swap 2 political prisoners

MOSCOW (AP)—Moscow will free dissident Vladimir Bukovsky in an unusual exchange for imprisoned Chilean Communist leader Luis Corvalan, Soviet dissidents said Friday.

In Santiago, Chile, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said the American government had helped Chile and the Soviet Union bring about the exchange.

"We can confirm that the U.S. government provided good offices and assistance with arrangements at the request of both sides," he said.

CORVALAN, 59, and his wife were taken to Santiago's airport in midafternoon under heavy guard and boarded a Lufthansa jetliner for Switzerland.

Bukovsky, 35, who has been serving a seven-year sentence at hard labor since 1972, was to be flown to Switzerland today with his family, the dissident sources said.

The exchange was worked out by officials of the Russian and Chilean embassies with the White House and State Department acting as go-betweens, the Washington Star reported.

It said the negotiations which began in October were arranged in part by William G. Hyland, a National Security Council official, and Harry Shlaudeman, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, acting as intermediaries between Chilean and Soviet diplomats in Washington.

A State Department spokesman in Washington said, "We have no comment on it."

Soviet officials refused to confirm Bukovsky's release or that an exchange had been arranged with the Chilean military junta. Previous international prisoner exchanges agreed to by Moscow have involved spies, and dissidents here could not recall any swap of political prisoners.

Sources in Bern said the Bukovskys were due aboard a regular Aeroflot flight scheduled to land at 10:55 a.m. today in Geneva.

Lufthansa's manager in Buenos Aires, Argentina, confirmed during the plane's brief stopover there that Corvalan was aboard.

Chile's military government declined comment on the exchange. "There is no statement," a press officer said. Gen. Hernan Bejares, secretary general of the Chilean government, scheduled a press conference for this morning.

The Corvalans were expected to fly to Moscow after one or two days in Switzerland. There was no indication that the two men would meet.

Soviet human rights spokesman Andrei D. Sakharov and a committee that works in his name in Denmark first proposed the exchange in October. Sources said the Soviet and Chilean governments apparently liked the idea, and quiet negotiations began in the United States.

Bukovsky was one of the most active members of the fledgling Soviet civil rights movement in the late 1960s and early 1970s. He was largely responsible for focusing world attention on the Soviet practice of putting dissidents in mental asylums, where he himself was placed several times. He has spent nearly a decade in Soviet prison camps and hospitals as a result of these activities.

Moscow has waged a persistent campaign for the release of Corvalan, jailed shortly after the military overthrew Marxist President Salvador Allende in 1973.

The Soviet Union, which regarded Corvalan as the world's foremost political prisoner, officially says it imprisons only "criminals" and holds no political prisoners of its own. But Soviet freethinkers are often jailed for what is generally called "antistate" activity.

In an effort to improve its image overseas, the Chilean government said last month it was freeing all of the hundreds of political prisoners it was holding without charge.

Norma Schechter shares beliefs with brailers

By DENISE KUSEL

For the 2,500 blind students enrolled in California schools, Norma Schechter is what one student called "a Jewish godmother."

Norma Schechter has trained more than 90 per cent of the volunteer brailers in Southern California.

"I really can't say how many people I've actually trained to use a braille machine," the soft-spoken Huntington Beach woman said.

More than 90 per cent of the school books for the blind are brailled by volunteers.

"I WAS RAISED in the Jewish tradition, which places a great importance on literacy," Mrs. Schechter continued. "I've tried to carry that belief into my daily life and share it with others."

Her relationship with the pale dots (braille words utilize a series of six raised dots on an 11-inch by 11½-inch sheet of paper) began when she was a student at Los Angeles City College.

"I was a reader for a blind student named Jim Burns. One day I was going to be late for our session and I had no way of letting him know."

"It never occurred to me that if Jim could learn braille as a 7-year-old, I could master it at 17."

"JIM BURNS went on to become an instructor at LACC. I learned braille and began offering classes in braille transcribing through my temple sisterhood.

"It took me six months to learn the basic skills. I found it mentally more work than higher mathematics."

"I just call braille a machine shorthand in a different symbology in a language with a nasty grammar," Mrs. Schechter said.

"We only use a combination of six dots and those dots have to represent every word we have in the English language — including numbers and punctuation.

The same word is brailled several different ways depending on its grammatical structure," she continued.

THE FIRST book she brailled was "The Ugly American."

"After spending months on just one section of a book, I began to realize that working alone, I couldn't accomplish much. I practiced — and at this time I was still using a punch board which creates dents in a piece of paper and then by turning the paper over the braille appears in a mirror image — and was certified by the Library of Congress Braille Section in 1959 as a teacher of braille transcribing.

"Over the years I've found that most of the people who enroll in my classes don't have personal contact with someone who is blind.

The reasons they want to learn braille transcribing differ with the person.

"MOST want to have a feeling of giving — of participating in something greater than themselves."

In addition to her volunteer work at temples and churches, Mrs. Schechter teaches classes in braille transcribing at Huntington Beach Adult School, Orange Coast College and Saddleback College.

Mrs. Schechter explained that the Beach Cities Braille Guild, formed under her direction two years ago, literally takes a book and tears it apart, giving each volunteer a section to transcribe. It takes approximately six months to braille an average book.

"We've even done parts of the TV Guide in braille for a student who needed it as an instructional aid. We've transcribed knitting instructions and music."

RIGHT NOW, I'm transcribing Hebrew into phonetic English to braille it for a young blind boy who will sing at Hannukah services."

There's an 18-month waiting list for the Perkins braille machine. The machine, which weighs about 12 pounds, is the most widely used brailier in the United States. It sells for $150.

Most of the machines are repaired at Vacaville State Penitentiary.

"There are about 40 men up there (at the medium security prison which also houses Charles Manson) who dedicate a lot of time and energy into doing work for the blind."

They developed the 'beeper ball.' That's a form of baseball game with a beeper lodged inside of the ball. The blind players can hear the beeper, which enables them to participate in an active sport.

"I'VE SPOKEN to some of the men involved in the Vacaville program," Mrs. Schechter said. "They're dedicated. All of a sudden, they found something to believe in — something to make them feel worthwhile."

The recidivism (return to prison) rate for men in this program is less than two per cent. (The over-all recidivism rate in California is 75 per cent.)

"The whole braille transcribing business is very inspiring," Mrs. Schechter added. "It keeps your faith in humanity. It also creates faith. Working with the sightless has pulled my own life into focus."

Hope grows for new hotel near convention center

By CHARLES SUTTON
Staff Writer

The chances of getting a major hotel near the city's new convention center looked considerably brighter to city officials Friday.

For months, the development group that was chosen to build and operate the proposed 600-room hotel had been having difficulty finding sufficient mortgage capital to launch the project, and its failure had lent an aura of pessimism to the hotel's prospects in recent weeks.

The mood, however, appears to have changed overnight.

Randall Verrue, an executive assistant to the city manager, for example, said he was now highly encouraged about the hotel, saying that a series of recent events had given the project new impetus.

Acting City Manager Robert Creighton disclosed Friday that the original development group had broken up and formed two new development teams, each of them anxious to build the hotel.

According to Verrue, the original group consisted of Perini Land and Development Co., Carlson Properties and Raddison Hotels.

Recently, however, Perini broke away from Raddison and launched a partnership with the Sheraton Hotel Corp. In the meantime, Raddison hooked up with the Mondev Corp., a Canadian-based development firm, and now the two groups are actively vying for development rights to the hotel.

Moreover, according to Verrue, the prospects of obtaining mortgage financing for the project have also greatly improved.

The fact that two new groups are seeking development rights to the project has put the city in an odd position, however.

Because the City Council last year had designated the Perini-Raddison group as the project developers, the altered status of the group may require the council to resolicit proposals for the project.

Creighton acknowledged the possibility in a letter to the panel

Friday, but he also asked the council for permission to negotiate with each of the offshoot groups, presumably to choose the best of the two proposals for later presentation to the council.

"We recognize that from a policy standpoint, your honorable body may wish to resolicit proposals from other firms that either were or may now be interested in this development," he said.

"However, after a review of our prior discussions with other hotel development and management groups, and considering the critical time requirements to commence construction on the hotel, we are of the opinion that no advantage would accrue to the city as a result of a (bid) readvertisement program."

Creighton said both Sheraton and Mondev had recognized capabilities in the hotel development field, having both developed "other major hotel and commercial projects."

Verrue said that after Perini had linked up with Sheraton, Raddison — not wishing to lose out on the deal — teamed up with the Canadian firm.

The key developments all took place within the past month.

Verrue said the city was advised of Sheraton's interest only 30 days ago. He said he also learned at that time that the hotel chain was having "detailed negotiations" with Perini "to finance the necessary front end costs and develop a mortgage package" that would satisfy the requirements of potential lenders.

Shortly thereafter, Mondev informed him that it had formed a separate partnership with Raddison for the same purpose.

The importance of the hotel to Pacific Terrace Convention Center has been highlighted in recent statements by Creighton and Verrue, both of whom have said that the convention center would lose more than a million dollars a year if there were no hotel nearby.

L.B. taxable sales up 7% over 1975

By DICK HOWLAND
Staff Writer

Taxable sales in Long Beach totaled $268 million during the third quarter of 1976, a 7.2 per cent increase over the same period last year, according to figures released by the State Board of Equalization.

The increase for Long Beach was not as high as the 12.5 per cent increase statewide.

Although statewide sales rose to record levels, they represented a slowdown in the pace of economic recovery, said board member Richard Nevins of Pasadena. The statewide rate of sales growth slowed for the second consecutive quarter, he said.

Taxable sales include retail items, hotel bills, auto and shoe repairs, morticians' services, public utility bills and manufacturing by heavy and light industry, Nevins said.

Total taxable sales for the third quarter of 1976 are compared to the totals for the third quarter of 1975 in the following cities:

Los Angeles County:
Artesia: $9,523,000 vs. $7,940,000.
Bellflower: $40,308,000 vs. $36,056,000.
Carson: $86,629,000 vs. $76,228,000.

Toys take a back seat to clothing

By JOE SEGURA
Staff Writer

For most children, the realization that there is a time for play and a time for work is not an easy lesson to learn.

But—as with their school lessons—John and Sue, ages 9 and 7, have proven to be fast learners of the important rule.

Both children, their parents report, are enthusiastic students. John is class president, and Sue earns good grades.

However, the parents add, their children need clothes.

With both parents temporarily underemployed, working irregular hours while attending vocational schools to qualify for better jobs, the children will not be able to have the clothes for some time.

But both children are quick to realize that there are priorities, such as rent and food.

AS FOR THE TOYS that are important to all children, the parents say those items, without a helping hand, are far down on their list of priorities.

Operation Christmas wants to extend that helping hand by providing those clothes, food and toys, using contributions from more fortunate Long Beach residents.

But to do so, money is needed, and the organizers of Operation Christmas, which provides those products to needy families, are finding that modest goal more difficult this year.

As of Friday, Operation Christmas was still attempting to reach its 1976 goal of $15,000, with contributions totaling $9,848.

Contributions, including canned goods at schools in the Long Beach area, are coming in more slowly this year, says Maj. Don Pack of the Salvation Army, coordinator of Operation Christmas.

The slow trend may prevent needy families from enjoying the Christmas holiday, he noted.

THROUGH Operation Christmas, each needy family receives a food voucher redeemable for turkey, ham or whatever they choose for Christmas dinner.

To insure a balanced array of food items in the dinner basket, canned goods are purchased to supplement those collected by school PTAs.

Tax-deductible donations may be sent to Independent Press-Telegram Operation Christmas, P.O. Box 1820, Long Beach, Calif. 90801.

Donations of food or clothing may be taken directly to the Operation Christmas clearinghouse at 455 E. Spring St. or to one of the following Long Beach centers:

Catholic Social Services, 123 E. 14th St.; Community Improvement League, 555 E. Pacific Coast Highway; East Long Beach Neighborhood Center, 2338 E. Anaheim St.; Central Area Neighborhood Facility, 1133 Rhea St.; Downtown Neighborhood Center, 601 Pacific Ave.; West Long Beach Neighborhood Center, 1372 W. Willow St.; Senior Opportunities Services, 406 E. First St.; North Long Beach Neighborhood Center, 1337 E. South St.; North Facility Center, 6335 Myrtle Ave.; West Facility Center, 2125 Santa Fe Ave., and Salvation Army, 455 E. Spring St.

Officer nervous first day on job

Police 'prostitute' nets amazed patron

By ROBERT GORE
Staff Writer

As soon as the prostitute began walking back and forth in front of a motel on Pacific Coast Highway, Long Beach Police Vice Officer David Barbee spotted her.

"We won't have to wait two minutes," Barbee said. The words were barely out of his mouth when a male motorist honked his horn and pulled over.

THE STREETWALKER went to the window and discussed terms with her prospective client. He turned into a nearby motel.

"We've got a hit," Barbee called into his radio to his partner, Sy Rangel, who followed the driver into the motel lot a marked police car. Barbee was close behind in an unmarked auto.

The "hooker" (prostitute) walked up to the man, whose gaping mouth and wide eyes betrayed his amazement as she identified herself.

"I'm a police officer," said Silvia Tresvan, "and you're under arrest for soliciting lewd conduct."

She had volunteered to play the role of a hooker. It was her first day and she was nervous. "I don't look like a prostitute to me," she said.

SUITABLY dressed in a brief, (high-hugging pink skirt, a low-cut black top, boots and plenty of eye shadow ("I don't usually look like this," she said), officer Tresvan, 26, plied her "trade" for two days this week.

"We arrest males for the simple reason that where there are no customers, there's no business," Barbee said.

Barbee told the fledgling decoy what to say, what not to say and how to signal him that a valid solicitation had occurred.

"If you see me turn on my headlights, walk away from the car — fast," Barbee said, adding that "they are a couple of pimps (people who run prostitution rings) who would like to talk to you."

Rangel, driving the black and white, would stay hidden while Barbee, who also does not look like a cop, parked across the street to insure Tresvan's safety.

BARBEE explained the prostitute business in Long Beach as he drove out to PCH.

"There are three or four major pimps in Long Beach," Barbee said. "One of them makes $20,000 a month — tax free."

Prostitutes in the area are generally divided into three types, according to the veteran vice officer: the women who work hotel bars and other classy bars, street-walkers and "hypes (drug addicts) who wind up in alleys working for 50 cents."

About $20 to $30 is the going street rate for the services of a prostitute.

"When a girl gets to be about 29, she starts to get some miles on her, so the pimp will dump her," Barbee said.

PERIODIC power struggles flare up between pimps. They burn each other's plush cars, trade shots, beat up their rival's girls and raise havoc in the central district, Barbee noted.

"It's virtually impossible to nail a pimp," he explained. "We've tried, but you can never catch them dirty (involved in a crime)."

A typical first-rate prostitute will earn $50 per trick (customer), Barbee said. The woman keeps $15 and the rest goes to the pimp, who keeps her in an apartment, buys clothes, food and drugs for her.

On the street, Tresvan is walking up and down in the winter sunshine. "Most of her customers will be on their lunch hours," Barbee said.

At times, there are three to four drivers in their cars waiting in line at the curb, all trying to gain Tresvan's attention. Prostitutes, Barbee noted, are a major cause of traffic accidents.

"THEY'RE (the men) completely oblivious to anything but the hooker," Barbee said as a man in a silver Toyota stopped inches from the detective's parked car, honking vigorously at the decoy.

"You can't control it," he said about the prostitution trade. "We could make 80 arrests a day if we had the manpower," he estimated.

She has made three in less than an hour and could have made more if she didn't have to stop to "buzz" (show her badge to) the suspects. They were all married and, as Barbee predicted, on their lunch hours.

A car will circle the block as many as six times before the driver pulls over to make contact.

As Tresvan talks to the driver, two housewives are giving her angry stares.

"I see these guys pulling over to solicit me," said Tresvan as she drove back to the station, "and I want to say 'What are you doing out here? Go home!'"

Japanese plan visit to sister city of Anaheim

Thirty residents of Mito, Japan, will visit Anaheim Tuesday and Wednesday commemorating the "sister city" arrangement which brought them together.

It will be a return visit to that of last month by 30 persons from Anaheim, who toured Mito and were feted by its officials.
Mito Mayor Yonosuke Wada and his party will receive a police escort as their charter bus rolls into Anaheim and a welcoming ceremony will be held at the Anaheim Stadium gates at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday.

The Anaheim Kingsmen, a drum and bugle corps which held the world championship for several years, will demonstrate a precision drill for the visitors.
They also will be feted at a Disneyland Hotel luncheon by the city's two Kiwanis Clubs at noon Tuesday.

Pastoral change People and ideas

A potpourri of opinion

MARK BUBECK

Dr. Frank M. Kepner will conclude his 20-year pastorate of First Baptist Church on May 1. His successor is the Rev. Mark L. Bubeck, pastor of the Judson Baptist Church of Oak Park, Ill.

Dr. Kepner will continue as co-pastor. Later he plans to give time to Bible conferences and evangelistic campaigns, work with which he is familiar. He has conducted 174 such meetings across the nation.

Dr. Kepner has shown strong leadership. A minister for 40 years, he was formerly pastor of the First Baptist Church of Pomona for ten years. In the 30 years he has witnessed more than 5,000 additions to membership, 2,000 by baptism. He has seen more than $7,500,000 given to the cause of Christ.

For ten years he served as executive secretary of the Southern California Baptist Convention. During the period $12 million was raised and 49 new churches were organized.

Mr. Bubeck attended the Moody Bible Institute and the University of Colorado. He graduated from the Conservative Baptist Theological Seminary in 1953. He became pastor of his present church in 1968. Under his leadership it has shown growth in numbers and in giving. He is the author of a book, "The Adversary." He is married and has three daughters.

Torture on increase

VALLEY Forge, Pa. (AP) — The executive committee of the Baptist World Alliance said at their annual meeting here that a spreading number of governments are suppressing religious and human rights.

"Torture and secret imprisonment are being used by many governments ... and others to extract information, to suppress criticism and to intimidate opposition," the resolution said, adding that as a result "countless numbers of men, women and children are suffering inhuman treatment."

And the world passeth away ... but he that doeth the will of God abideth for ever. 1 John 2:17.

A FEMALE JESUS?

"What would our world be like if Jesus had been born a woman?" asked Rev. Grace Moore, co-pastor of Cross Roads United Church of Christ in Lakewood.

She went on to argue that it would be a better world. There would be more of the "feminine characteristics" of compassion, tenderness and gentleness. Liberated women would use nonviolent means for dealing with conflicts. Women would share in all positions of power. There would be more attention to nature, ecology and humanism.

Well, this writer is a feminist who believes in equality of the sexes. It would be a better world if men and women were truly peers and partners. But I can't share Mrs. Moore's enthusiasm for her sex. Women have no monopoly on compassion and gentleness. Jesus was well supplied with those virtues. Women have no instinct for ecology — their vanity has looted the world of furs and feathers and ivory and gold and gems. They can be as cruel — or perhaps more cruel. Kipling said:

"The female of the species is more deadly than the male."

Let's be realistic. Men used to put beloved women on pedestals. Now women are trying to climb the pedestals themselves.

It's much better to go hand in hand.

HOWARD HUGHES AND ALL OF US

My friend, Jim Phelan, has written a book which must be the horror story of the century. It details the "hidden years" of multimillionaire Howard Hughes.

It is a horror story more ugly than the atrocities of war because the torments were self-inflicted. And it is also horrible because it says much about the human condition. Hughes thought he was unique. He wasn't.

As a young man he had everything. His wealth made him more powerful than many a king. He used money creatively and often brilliantly. He had his choice of beautiful women. He went on from exploit to exploit. Some were silly like the Spruce Goose, but even that had a dash of royal daring.

But something happened. Who can say what? Little by little he began to withdraw from life. Finally he was living alone, naked and unwashed, in sealed rooms in, of course, the best hotels. He seldom saw anyone except his two servants.

Few of us will become like Howard, but there is a little dash of his tragic flaw in all of us. We give up things, sometimes through necessity, sometimes through boredom.

Any man, unless he is a nut or a Superman, gives up football in his twenties.

MARK CLUTTER
RELIGION EDITOR

As the years progress more and more pleasures, sports and ambitions have to go. There's no help for it.

The last thing that should have to go is zest, the love of living. That should depart with one's last breath.

Perhaps if Hughes had cared about anybody — or even a little animal — his story would have been different.

IS AMERICA CHRISTIAN?

That depends upon how you define "Christian."

Christianity Today explores the state of religion in this country.

At least superficially Christianity is alive and well, reports C. Peter Wagner, a professor at Fuller Seminary School of World Mission.

He reports that "more Americans attend church in an average week than attend all professional baseball, basketball and football games in the average year! All athletic events of all kinds, professional and amateur, draw about 5.5 million spectators per week, while churches draw 85 million in the same week."

A Gallup Poll shows that 71 per cent of adults (18 or older) are members of a church or synagogue.

Is America the most church-going nation? Yes. Many European churches report serious declines.

Church attendance in this country reached an all-time high about 1960. It declined some and is now slowly increasing.

We tend to think of America as a "Christian nation." Historically it is not. There is a mythology about the Pilgrim Fathers and Washington kneeling in the snow at Valley Forge. Actually most of the colonists couldn't have cared less about religion. There was the Great Awakening of revivalism in the middle 18th century. It declined and the Revolution was hard on churches, especially the Anglicans, who tended to be Tories. It is estimated that only seven per cent of the people were church members at the end of the Revolution. By 1850 membership was up to 20 per cent. It reached 36 per cent by 1900.

One reason for the myth of a Christian America was the prominence of Christians in politics, literature and war. They tended to be better educated.

What do these figures about church membership and attendance in 1976 mean? What about the quality of these Christians? It's hard to say. But at least a lot of Americans are going to church!

BUT CHRISTIANS ARE JEWS!

"Jews are not Christians and Christians are not Jews," wrote Rabbi Gershon Schusterman in commenting on an article in which a 22-year-old Jewish woman described her acceptance of Christ.

(Incidentally, we will not print more letters about Elaine Winer's article. We have perhaps used too many already, and there is a bundle left over, some of them thoughtful and scholarly, others rather sick. Elaine is a free American who has a right to make her own decisions.)

Rabbi Schusterman's comment is only half right. Jews are not Christians — but Christians are Jews! This remark will probably infuriate many Christians.

They should study the history of Christianity. The Bible is Jewish. Some quibbling scholars think that St. Luke and the author of Job may not have been Jewish, but that doesn't matter because their messages are in the tradition.

Almost every page of the New Testament is related to the Law and the Prophets.

Jesus himself was a Jew of Jews. Much of his wisdom was derived directly from the tradition. For example, the Summary of the Law — "Thou shalt love God ... and thy neighbor as thyself."

Some theologians see Jesus as a rebel Pharisee, a Jew who criticized his

POSITIVE THINKING

by Norman Vincent Peale

The happiness habit

One morning, in a Pullman, nearly half a dozen of us were in the men's lounge getting washed. As always in such close and crowded quarters, after a night on the train, this group of strangers was not disposed to be gay and there was little conversation.

Then, a man came in who wore a broad smile. He greeted us all with a cheery "good morning" and received largely unenthusiastic grunts in return. But he went about his shaving humming, probably quite unconsciously, a gay little tune. It got on the nerves of some of the men.

Finally, one said rather sarcastically, "You certainly seem to be happy this morning."

"Yes, as a matter of fact, I am happy, the man answered. 'I make it a habit to be happy.'"

That is all that was said, but I am sure that each man in that room left the train with those words in his mind, "I make it a habit to be happy."

That collection of the wisest sayings known to man, the Book of Proverbs, tells us the same thing when it says, "He that is of a merry heart hath a continual feast." In other words, develop the happiness habit and you can enjoy life each day.

To develop the happiness habit, I suggest that you deliberately practice thinking happiness. For example, if you got up this morning in the usual way, you may have said gloomily, "It's going to be a terrible day." And by saying this you actually helped make it a terrible day, even if only for yourself. So tomorrow when you get up, say, "This is the day which the Lord hath made: I will rejoice and be glad in it" — and the chances are that it will be a good day. It is just simple common sense to practice happiness thinking.

One of the happiest men I know is a business man who must travel all over the country in the course of his work. His wife, who also has the happiness habit, travels with him. They give away hundreds of their business cards. The card has their simple philosophy printed on its reverse side. This is what it says: "The way to happiness: Keep your heart free from hate, your mind free from worry. Live simply. Expect little. Give much. Fill your life with love. Scatter sunshine.

Forget self — think of others. Do as you would be done by. Try this for a week and you will be surprised."

This is a good formula and, for this couple, has been an effective one. One man, who had a great deal of money but had been unable to buy happiness with it, joined their organization as a common laborer so that he might learn their happiness secret. He did learn it and once summarized it for me in this way: 1. Trust God. 2. Thank God for all your blessings. 3. Do all you can for people without thought of personal gain."

These three rules are psychologically sound. And a fourth rule should probably be added to them. That is: "Spread happiness."

You may say that you haven't any happiness to spread. Try it anyway. Spread what happiness you have. Ralph Waldo Emerson, who was a very wise man, wrote, "Happiness is a perfume which, if you spread it on other people, is bound to leave a few drops on you." That's a great thing to know. When you feel unhappy, go out and spread happiness. You'll get a few drops on yourself.

One of my best friends was the late Channing Pollock, the writer, who was a completely and wholeheartedly happy man. One day we were lunching together and he mentioned a brethren for not living up to their ideals. He certainly had nothing to do with the ultraliberal, main-chancing, peace-at-any-price Sadducees who did him in.

Many Christians, alas, disavow their Jewish heritage. They ignore the Old Testament without realizing that the New Testament is dependent upon it. Many Christians have a vague, prettified notion of Jesus. They envision a sweet, not very masculine young man who walked around being nice to people. That's not what the story is about. He was, in a very real sense, the "Son of David." The New Testament is almost incomprehensible without the Old Testament.

certain man, whom I knew only by reputation, and said, "He's having hard going. We ought to go to see him."

I told him I had an appointment and had to get away. But Channing insisted — and we went to visit the man. When we got there, Channing put his arm around the man's shoulder and said, "How are you, old boy? I've been thinking about you. I love you. Here is Dr. Peale — he loves you too."

So, I said, obediently, "I haven't met you until this minute, but I love you too."

You know, I went out of there walking on air. I was happy, Channing was happy and the man we came to see was happy. And I hope you're happy reading about how Channing Pollock persuaded me to help him make someone else happy.

Pour out the perfume of happiness, and the drops will linger as a fragrance in your heart.

NEW YORK (AP) — Six Eastern Orthodox denominations that belong to the National Council of Churches have decided that hereafter they will consult together before Council meetings so as to act as a unified bloc.
Previously, each Orthodox delegation has acted independently, with little coordination with the others. The decision for the new strategy was made at a meeting of the Standing Conference of Orthodox Bishops in the Americas, presided over by Greek Orthodox Archbishop Iakovos.

CHRISTMAS PRAYER

By MARIE H. WOOD, Long Beach

The Star still shines, ethereal white, in distant blue-black sky, where bedded crows that quiet night woke to a Child's soft cry.

Here Shepherds found God's gift of Life where Love and Peace were willed as refuge from a world of strife a pledge of God fulfilled.

Oh, radiant Star of Hope, lead on!
Pray guide us on our way till all earth's varied scenes are lost in God's Eternal Day!

Religious groups sue for files

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several religious groups, in the wake of revelations about surveillance and manipulation of organizations by U.S. intelligence agencies, have filed suits under the Freedom of Information Act to obtain files mentioning the religious groups.

They say that several requests for the files had been turned down. The data collected reportedly focuses mainly on church groups active in civil rights causes and in opposition to the Vietnam war.

Joint parish

GRAYMOOR, N.Y. (AP) — The Atonement Friars, a Roman Catholic order stressing Christian unity, are opening the first ecumenical parish on the island of Jamaica, a project jointly financed by Roman Catholic and Anglican (Episcopal) dioceses there.

It is being set up in Bridgeport, about 13 miles from Kingston, at the invitation of Roman Catholic Archbishop Samuel Carter of Kingston.

Among the groups pressing for their files are the U.S. Jesuit Conference, the American Friends Service Committee (Quakers), the United Church of Christ, the Mennonites, the Church of Scientology, the Zion Methodist Church and the Mosque of Islam.

Light spreads

Ridder News Service

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. — Christianity of an evangelical nature is growing in the Soviet Union, the pastor a Seventh-day Adventist church in Russia reported on a recent visit here.

"Nothing in the world can stop the spreading of this light," said the Rev. Mikhail P. Kulakov, who ministers to a Seventh-day Adventist church in Tula, located about 125 miles south of Moscow.

These were the words of encouragement that Rev. Kulakov brought to members of the church and employees of the Pacific Press, the large church publishing center in Mountain View.

Poem

How lovely to find one of Francis Thompson's poems in the religion column. Having read almost all of his poems and essays — and his life as a young student, the appellation of "Lippie" does not exactly fit him. His father was a doctor, and wanted his son to follow him; he was not really all that great as a medical student and had an illness or injury that began the use of opium.

Some of the really talented people of that time were similarly hooked (as De Quincey).

The drug almost, did indeed, ruin his physical being, but it seems that even in his worst suffering he wrote some gems.

He was rescued by Alice Meynell and her husband; fed, sheltered and protected until he died. The Meynells saw to the publication of his lovely essays, too and thanks to them we have complete collections of his poems. Do you remember, he wrote "The Hound of Heaven"? Your section is always interesting and informative and appreciated. A Happy Christmas to you!

Pickpocket

NEOSHO, Mo. (AP) — A Southern Baptist minister, the Rev. John Wallen, was standing on a busy street corner when a stranger with a coat draped over his arm brushed roughly by and hurriedly moved away.

The minister, recognizing the pickpocket technique, promptly checked his pockets and found that, while he still had his wallet, the sick-fingered artist had made off with a packet of evangelistic cards, "How to Have a Full and Meaningful Life."

Student arraigned on reckless flying charge

Student Theodore Allen LaBelle was arraigned in Municipal Court Friday on charges of terrorizing residents with a light plane, making treetop-level passes over Long Beach and Seal Beach after a spat with his sweetheart.

He remained free on $10,000 bail, but Judge J. Merrill Lilley ordered him to return to Dept. 8 of Municipal Court Dec. 29 for a preliminary hearing.

LaBelle, 20, of 4596 Elder Ave., Seal Beach, was arraigned on three counts of operating an aircraft in a reckless manner to endanger lives and one count of joyriding in an airplane.

He was arrested Nov. 29 after taking off in a twin-engine Cessna 310 from Long Beach Airport.

Authorities said LaBelle buzzed the airport and tower, flew to Santa Catalina Island and made at least 20 passes over Seal Beach. He fired at least two rounds from a shotgun while in the air, but no one was hurt, officers said.

LaBelle reportedly became enraged when Marjorie Sterling, 24, of Seal Beach, told him they would have to break up.

He landed the plane on a strip of open land at the U.S. Naval Weapons Station in Seal Beach, taxied to a halt and then jumped out with the shotgun in his hand, authorities said. He surrendered after lawmen from four cities and the Orange County Sheriff's Department surrounded him.

LaBelle is an electronics student at Long Beach State University.

Slasher 'a hunter stalking his game'

Associated Press

The prosecution in the Skid Row Slasher murder trial in Los Angeles closed its case Friday by portraying the defendant as a "hunter stalking his game."

Prosecutor Marsh Goldstein told the jury that the 11 murders charged to Vaughn Orrin Greenwood "have quite a number of things in common that should persuade you they were committed by the same person."

Among the similarities noted by Goldstein were that all the victims were single men living alone, their throats were slashed from ear to ear, and their shoes and arms were arranged in some type of pattern.

"This is a unique way of killing," said Goldstein. "A very rare way of killing."

"These were a willful, premeditated, deliberate

L.A. recounts fail to change results

From Our L.A. Bureau

Los Angeles County Registrar-Recorder Leonard Panish has closed the book on the Nov. 8 election results, telling supervisors that recounts requested in three races have "confirmed the integrity of the vote tally system."

In a memo to supervisors, Panish said the three recounts involved votes on the City of Malibu incorporation; the 19th Senatorial District race, and the contest for membership on the board of trustees of the Las Virgenes Water District.

The Malibu incorporation issue was defeated by a difference of 108 votes in the computerized tally of Nov. 8 ballots. Panish said the hand recount reduced the difference to 104 votes.

In the 19th Senatorial District, he said there were no changes in precinct totals after 13 precincts were recounted. He said the losing candidate at that point called off his recount request.

There were 10 votes separating the candidates for the Las Virgenes Water District, he said. All precincts and absentee ballots were recounted, resulting in a difference of nine votes.

Although an official recount in the race for U.S. senator was not requested, Panish did conduct a hand count in more than 80 precincts in that race. The hand count confirmed the computerized results recorded Nov. 8.

Owner of raided sanitarium mum

The Garden Grove Sanitarium was closed Friday, one day after its 69 elderly and ailing patients were removed in a surprise raid by state and county agents.

Dr. Richard A. Carter, owner of the facility at 10471 Garden Grove Boulevard, was unavailable to comment on a state order he was handed that immediately revoked the sanitarium's health care license, pending a hearing.

Late Friday a security guard at the facility said, "I'm the only person here," adding he did not know where the patients.

44 on Medi-Cal and 25 on private payment status, were taken.

Carter and the sanitarium were accused of 34 state health code violations, ranging from insufficient nurse staffing, food handling, improper hygiene, food storage and fire hazards.

Previously, the sanitarium had been hit by $5,000 fines and numerous smaller ones amounting to $55,000. Paul LaPointe of the Santa Ana office of the State Health Department's facilities licensing section said the sanitarium "had failed to correct the problems."

Officer called to bar is shot; suspect held

Associated Press

A Los Angeles police sergeant called to a bar was shot four times Friday, and his alleged assailant was captured shortly afterward.

Sgt. Lawrence Sewell, 33, was listed in serious but stable condition at County-USC Medical Center after surgery.

Police took Larry Roby, 45, into custody and booked him for investigation of assault with intent to commit murder. He suffered a head cut in a struggle with arresting officers, police said.

Sewell was called to the Club Royale Bar after patrons thought they recognized Roby as a man who had robbed the bar two months ago, officers said.

Authorities later said Roby was a parole violator who was free on $75,000 bond while awaiting trial in two bank robbery cases.

Roadside crops may be labeled

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's Interstate 5, a 1,000-mile link in the West Coast's principal Canada-Mexico highway, may soon become something of a classroom of the road.

The idea proposed by the Interstate 5 Association, a merchants' group, is to label the agricultural fields that stretch to the horizon along the 450-mile segment of the highway that runs the length of California's great Central Valley.

That's a heavily traveled, relatively new stretch of freeway which skirts most valley cities and towns. There are few buildings or billboards between the restaurants and service stations clustered at crossroads every 25 to 50 miles.

THE SIGNS would be small, simple and non-commercial: "Cotton field," "Pear orchard," "Cantaloupe field," "Grazing land," "Oil field," and so forth.

"This program would serve many purposes," said William L. Jorgenson, managing director of the association, in a letter to state officials. "It would add to the safety factor by keeping the driver alert. It would add to the education of children as well as adults."

Jorgenson said motorists, including many Californians from urban areas, frequently ask merchants along the road about the crops, and that they regularly are surprised to learn about some of the state's biggest crops, such as cotton.

"Through our program, every motorist will become educated to the types of crops we grow and natural resources we produce," he said.

Fishing talks with Japanese break down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Japanese and American fisheries negotiators ended five days of talks Friday, failing to reach a new agreement governing Japanese fishing activities once the U.S. 200-mile zone goes into effect next year, American officials said.

"There are still differences of opinion," one official said.

He said it was unclear whether a new round of talks will be scheduled or whether an agreement will be sought on a more informal basis.

Japan has the most active foreign fisheries operation off the Pacific Northwest coast.

State transportation plan to get 'once-over-lightly' rewrite

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Transportation Board voted 5-3 Friday to rewrite its state transportation plan, but not to start with the "fundamental changes" demanded by Gov. Brown's administration.

As a result, it seemed that the board's plan would include at least some smog fees, freeway tolls or gas taxes intended to make motorists switch to mass transit or car pools.

Brown's top transportation aides questioned the equity and practicality of those proposals, and legislators said they had no chance of passage.

HOWEVER, the board voted down a suggestion by Brown appointee Pete Fielding, a professor at the University of California at Irvine, to make "fundamental changes" in the plan before starting a rewrite.

It approved instead a proposal by another Brown appointee, Ann Barkley of the League to Save Lake Tahoe, that the board rewrite its plan in the light of the criticisms, then seek meetings with administration officials and legislators before final approval.

"We had better try to do what we can with the existing vehicle, rather than start again from point zero," said board member Thomas Hughes, a San Jose lawyer, who was appointed by former Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Ms. Barkley and Hughes were joined by Fresno City Councilman Al Villa, a Brown appointee, and two other Reagan appointees, Chairman Bill Lucius, a Healdsburg city councilman, and Ross Eckert, a USC economist.

Fielding's support came from two Reagan appointees, James Schmidt, a San Diego savings and loan officer, and Public Utilities Commissioner D.W. Holmes.

Holmes, whose term is expiring, said the board had spent "millions" drafting the plan and "so far nothing has come to fruition." He called it "ill-advised" to pursue further rewrites "without some expression of what the Legislature wants."

In a letter to the board, Brown's business and transportation secretary, Donald Burns, and Transportation Director Adriana Gianturco called the board's draft plan "negative" and said they would prefer incentives to make drivers switch to car pools or mass transit rather than "disincentives" to drive their cars.

They also said they could not support any general gas tax increase.

In addition, they questioned proposals to deregulate the transportation business and said the draft failed to make special provisions for rural areas or to distinguish between immediate and long term goals.

They also asked for a better definition of "full social accounting," a theory pushed by Eckert which would require users to pay the full costs of highways, mass transit or other transport facilities, including such "social" costs as pollution, congestion and the like.

point zero," said board member Thomas Hughes, a San Jose lawyer, who was appointed by former Gov. Ronald Reagan.

People with problems shouldn't have to take them out on a child.

Because children are always around, we feel as if we own them. And when we're faced with a problem we can't cope with, we sometimes take that problem out on a child.

We yell at a child when we're mad at our boss.

Confused and preoccupied by other problems, we spank a child without thinking.

And it gets worse.

Every year, at least 2,000 children die of abuse. An estimated one million other cases of abuse and neglect occur every year.

DEMAND Noise level at rock concerts may be literally deafening

Because of the continuing demand for tickets to "A Chorus Line," Civic Light Opera has arranged with the Shubert Theater for CLO subscribers only to obtain preferred seating at discount prices for the show during the month of April.

By JOHN ROCKWELL
New York Times Service

NEW YORK — Today's subject is noise — specifically, the excessive noise levels at rock concerts.

The whole issue struck us once again the other day during a radio interview. The interviewer, a kindly man whose taste in music and in volume levels was formed during the 1930s and 1940s, asked the obvious question: "Why do rock concerts have to be so loud?" And once again this observer was unable to come up with a ready answer.

Then a couple of days later a rock-performer friend casually remarked, "Of course, classical music is so quiet." Some of us have innocently assumed that classical music's unamplified volume level represented the norm, and hence that rock was "loud." That it might be normal and classical music might be "soft" was a new thought entirely.

Earlier in the conversation, the same performer was talking about another performer she knows who, she fears, has blasted out all high-frequency response in his ears through years of deafening volume on stage and in the record studio. This doesn't seem a particularly sensible way to manage one's life, particularly if one was a musician.

We recalled a conversation that a number of us had on a running basis during the opening weeks of the 1975 Rolling Stones tour. The band had rehearsed in a New York area living room, playing through their whole repertoire with no other amplification than a few small monitors to simulate an amplified sound. One person who was there said it was the best Rolling Stones concert he had ever heard.

The main answer one gets when trying to figure out why the music is loud is "impact." Performers and audiences apparently revel in the sheer blasting power of an arena amplification system in full pride. They don't want just an aural experience; they like to feel the seats vibrate. Volume has become equated with energy in the world of rock. Sloppy, otherwise ineffective bands increase the noise level to distract from their inadequacies. But good bands also play as loud or louder than lesser bands.

Another consideration is clarity. Some of us have never equated volume with clarity, but rock musicians argue that just short of the pain threshold you can hear music at its most vibrant and translucent.

Part of the volume overload may have to do with an us-against-them attitude many young people feel about "their" music. For some reason (perhaps even physiological?) teenagers seem naturally able to accommodate higher volume levels than adults. This observer knows that he plays music at a lower level on his record player than he used to do as a youth. Teen-agers feel comfortable with levels of volume that give genuine pain to adults, and the noise becomes another way to freeze parents out of their youthful generational preserves.

As a direct result, the increasingly curious split widens between some artists' record-buying and concert-going audiences. Quite apart from the raucousness and alienation inherent in any large arena concert, there is the problem of noise. Of course, you can use some form of earplugs. Many of us do that, but it does appear to be an ultimate absurdist metaphor. Imagine — they'll read in the

Earl's Pearls

Today's Best Laugh: A Man in a speed-reading class explained, "I used to be very slow. I had to visit my optometrist twice to finish the eye chart."

Wish I'd Said That: "The new TV shows are so lousy," sighed a viewer, "that we'd turn them off — if we could remember."

What else it was we used to do.

Earl's Pearls: A comic who earned $10,000 a week in Las Vegas complained at Catch a Rising Star, "Next time I have to get more. I can't afford to lose $10,000 unless I make $15,000."

Bobby Vinton recalled a review of a recent novel: "This is not a book to be tossed aside lightly. It should be thrown with great force."

King Kong rehearsing his speech for Oscars

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It is easy for the Academy voters to give an Oscar to a Marion Brando, a Jack Nicholson, a Gene Hackman. But how can I convince them to give one to a 35-foot ape who deserves it as much as I need the help of the media."

That is the plea of producer Dino De Laurentiis after a preview of "King Kong." Is he serious, or is this just another hype for one of the most exploited movies of all time? He seemed sincere, and Hollywood has learned to take the dynamic Italian seriously.

It is doubtful if Kong will lumber onto Music Center stage next March 28 to claim the statuette for the best performance by an actor. But some previewers tend to agree with De Laurentiis that the big beast ought to be considered for it.

"King Kong" opened in an "imprecedented 1,043 theaters in the United States and Canada Friday and opens in another 1,000 throughout the world before Christmas. Early reviews concur that the film is one of the best remakes ever, equal to and probably better than the 1932 classic.

Kong is the star — no doubt about it. He is at once, a terrifying and endearing figure, bewildered victim of a rapacious world. The magic of the film craftsmen, led by Carlo Rambaldi and Glen Robinson, is complete; whether filmed life-size or in miniature, Kong is totally convincing.

Fortunately, he has no lines. Writer Lorenzo Semple Jr. has given the other stars — Jeff Bridges, Jessica Lange and Charles Grodin — some of the most banal dialogue since the Captain Marvel serials. Grodin plays the villainous oil-giant operative with everything but a twisted mustache.

But Kong saves it all. The secret, says director John Guillermin, is in the eyes.

"If you believe the eyes, you believe the actor," reasoned the British-born filmmaker. Indeed, the closeups of Kong are persuasive, largely because of the eyes of Rick Baker, the actor inside the man-sized monkey suit. Guillermin purposely introduced Kong in the film via a huge closeup of the eyes as the monster rampages through the forest en route to the sacrificial maiden.

Again the eyes capture attention at the end of the film. Kong lies mortally wounded at the base of New York's World Trade Center towers, his huge heart thumping to an end.

De Laurentiis will soon know the outcome of his $24-million "King Kong" gamble. He is a plunger who overlooks nothing, and the film has been accompanied by a Kong-size exploitation campaign. In fact, the company's advertising-publicity-promotion executive, Gordon Armstrong, is mildly concerned.

"King Kong" has been getting so much hype that we're worried about a reverse reaction," said Armstrong. "We could get two results: 1. People have read and heard so much about it that they may think they've already seen the picture; 2. They may think the excessive hype is because the picture isn't good."

Those are merely a promotion man's temporary misgivings. For almost a year, the De Laurentiis organization and Paramount Pictures have been racing full-tilt to imprint the new "King Kong" on the world's consciousness.

The campaign began Nov. 30, 1975, with a full-page ad in the New York Times announcing that the film would appear one year later. Meanwhile, interested parties could obtain a full-color poster of the ad, which depicted the latter-day Kong standing astride the World Trade Center towers — something he doesn't do in the film.

De Laurentiis had good reason to open the publicity floodgates: Universal Pictures had also announced a remake of "King Kong." The battle of press releases reached the courts and was settled by Universal's postponing its version in return for a cut of the Italian's profits.

Meanwhile, De Laurentiis had rushed into production before the age mechanism was perfected. Magazines printed stories that Kong was turning into multimillion-dollar disaster.

"The turning point came when Dino took Kong to the New York location," said Armstrong. "Paramount was not crazy about the idea, but

KONG THROWS WEIGHT AROUND NEW YORK —AP Wirephoto

Dino insisted: "Take ads in the paper to get people there; invite the journalists!" Five thousand appeared on the first night of shooting at the World Trade Center and more than 30,000 the second night.

Merchandising prospects were lined up. A whisky company featured Kong in its ads, offered a Kong-shaped bottle, and promoted the King Kong cocktail-whisky, grenadine and orange juice. T-shirts, shoes, masks, watches, handkerchiefs, jewelry, key chains, posters and a host of other products are forthcoming.

"Originally it was a tough sell," Armstrong said. "Now manufacturers are coming to us." Just to make sure that everyone is aware of "King Kong," $2 million worth of television and radio commercials will be appearing this week and next, Armstrong adds.

"No movie has ever had the stage set so thoroughly for it to be successful. Now it's up to King Kong."

'MAN OF STEEL' TURNS 66

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Up, up and away! But mostly, Superman dashes off to the bank to cash his Social Security check.

The Man of Steel has retired. Kirk Alyn, who played Superman in 30 movie serials in the late 1940s and early 1950s, is now 66 years old and hasn't stopped a speeding train in years. "But I feel like I'm 39. And I wish they would stop offering me the same roles," said Alyn.

After he stopped playing Superman, he said he had trouble getting roles because producers felt the public wouldn't believe him as anybody else.

"Now I get offers, but it's only for detective roles," he said. "I just turned down two such parts. For one thing, I can't get used to the language they want you to use today. I don't want kids saying, 'Look at the words Superman is using.'"

Alyn said he isn't recognized much in Los Angeles, but out-of-town people often come up to him and say, "Aren't you Superman? I grew up with you."

Crichton is the author of such novels as "The Andromeda Strain," "Terminal Man" and "The Great Train Robbery" and the writer-director of "Westworld."

"Coma" film set
Michael Crichton will write the screenplay and direct "Coma," from the upcoming novel by Robin Cook about terror in a modern hospital.

Live Christmas tree is nice to enjoy all year

By JOE LITTLFIELD

There's nothing like having your own live Christmas tree — especially one growing in a container which can be brought indoors during the holiday season. And it will provide a pleasing plant in for a sunny patio the rest of the year. In about four or five years it should be planted in the yard.

It's the berries

Luscious home-grown strawberries like these are easy to grow. For best results, started plants should be planted now for an early spring harvest. Check with your nurseryman about planting them in containers for handy harvesting on patios and balconies.

Gardener can always choose the type of tree he prefers, but he should remember the cedar and pine trees grow faster than do fir or spruce trees. Fir and spruce, because they grow much slower, may be kept longer in containers. The trees are available in containers and also can be purchased balled and burlapped. Select a sturdy container and plant it as if it is to grow outdoors.

THE CONTAINER planter mix is comprised of fine peat moss, fine barks, some sand and food value, but should not be one that is mixed with too much sand.

The drainage hole or holes should be covered by pieces of broken clay pot to prevent the water from washing out the soil and to retain the water.

Mix material should be firmed well under and around the root ball. The water must not immediately disappear into the soil when watered.

Gardener should refill the container two or three times and bathe the foliage well. This is the proper way to water the plant, also before it is brought indoors after the foliage has dried and the water has completely drained out.

Indoors the tree must be put in a cool part of the room, but near a window for lots of indirect light.

A CUT CHRISTMAS tree should be carefully inspected. The tree trunk base should be thumped on the ground to see if the needles drop off. Don't take it if they drop off. Bend the foliage to see if it snaps. The leafage should be pliable.

Christmas gift plants are always welcome. They should be ones that continue to grow for years — reminder of the donor.

From our family, to your family, we wish you all a happy Christmas and a healthy New Year!

Business growth seen for Calif. but..

'Potential weaknesses' bear watching

By RALPH HINMAN Jr.
Staff Writer

Although '1977 will be a relatively good business year in California,' several areas of potential weakness should be monitored regularly by the state's business community, a Wells Fargo Bank vice president-senior economist forecast this week in Los Angeles.

"It will be a year of stable growth, and many industries should share in this expansion," said Joseph A. Wahed of San Francisco, in the Southland to speak at a California Certified Public Accountants-sponsored business briefing conference in the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

During a between-panels interview, Wahed indicated that "among the industries" to watch grow and develop next year are aerospace-electronics and commercial aviation.

Also to do well are "the service industries, many of which are doing very nicely right now," he said.

Wahed noted that "food prices should moderate," while other domestic expenses rise rapidly. And, not unexpectedly, various fears about taxes, the environment and other issues now perturbing Californians — and all Americans — will continue unabated.

He predicted for California business specifically, as for the U.S. private enterprises generally, "It will be a good profit year, with profits statewide and nationally averaging plus-15 per cent."

A federal tax cut on the order of 15 per cent would come as no surprise, he said.

Evaluating two critical aspects of the economy, the economist predicted that continuing inflationary growth will be a "moderate" 6 per cent or under next year. And, "A lower (but still high) unemployment rate" of about 8 per cent will prevail by year's end.

Presently about 9.4 per cent of the California work force is jobless, in contrast to an 8.1 per cent figure nationally.

"No excessive quantities — or shortages — of raw materials" were foreseen, even though "there are some people who expect various shortages."

Consumer confidence in business and the economy in general is on the upsurge, Wahed said, a situation traditionally viewed as beneficial to the total mercantile community.

What could go sour with the economy? "Several things," said Wahed, noting that:

- "Mr. Carter may cancel the B-1 (manned bomber) program, although this is unlikely. He might deemphasize defense spending in the next budget, which would have its impact in 1978.

- "We may have underestimated next year's inflation rate. If it is higher than 6 per cent, this would eat into incomes, reduce sales and undermine confidence. Inflation could spurt if oil prices rise too much, too soon. Low odds on that happening, though.

- "We may have a worldwide recession which would have impact on California's basic industries.

- "Another rainless year would hurt farmers and a variety of tourist-related industries. Food prices would jump.

- "Consumer confidence levels may remain so-so instead of improving as expected.

"These are all possible — but not likely — events," Wahed averred. "It's good to know about them, though, so we can monitor them month by month."

Turning to several major areas, the banker said consumer trends and mood early in the year will be "rather cautious at first but improving later."

Incomes may be expected to grow faster as the year progresses, moving upward to a 10-11 per cent average. At the same time, consumer debt burden among Californians "is not heavy, thus there is room for expansion... Personal loans, credit card usage and auto sales should rise."

Food prices will moderate, he said, "but we expect medical, insurance and energy prices to rise rapidly, restraining family incomes." California consumers may continue to worry about rising property tax burdens, about impact of environmental constraints and about the unemployment rate.

Total retail sales are expected to increase 10.5 per cent, "slightly less than in 1976, but still good," he said.

Nearly 250,000 new jobs are expected to open in the coming year, "mostly in services, but also in construction and manufacturing." Finding new jobs for all who want to work remains "a basic challenge to our society."

Housing prospects are one of the brighter spots in 1976 and '77, Wahed said. More than 200,000 new homes and apartments are expected to be ready by the end of next year.

The median price of new single-family homes in California now is more than $55,000, he said, "beyond the reach of (most) first-time homebuyers who need to have an annual income of over $22,000 to qualify" for a loan.

And "home ownership costs — insurance, taxes, upkeep — are rising rapidly, straining those first-time buyers."

More government subsidized homes will be built to aid low- and middle-income families, was a prediction.

Foreseeable industrial trends now looming on the horizon indicate business growth will be "substantial but not booming in 1977. Business will start the year in a cautious, wait-and-see mood."

Early in the year, Wahed continued, "although profits are strong, we still will have some excess capacity (overproduction) in some industries."

"This will change, however, as soon as sales pick up steam in the second half. Manufacturing production and employment first will edge up, then accelerate."

Finally, he said, "New industrial and commercial building contracts will increase steadily."

Stocks rise Penn Central seeks liquidation at oil news

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market greeted the news of a pricing split among the oil nations with a brief upsurge Friday, but the rally gave way to a moderate decline by the close.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, ahead more than 5 points after the first half hour, showed a 2.24 loss at 979.06 by the end of the session. The average finished the week with a net gain of 5.91 points.

Declines outnumbered advances by about a 7-6 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume reached 23.87 million shares, almost matching Thursday's total of 23.92 million.

THE news from the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries of a price divergence between Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates and the other members of the oil cartel produced some initial elation on Wall Street.

Analysts described it as a welcome break in the united pricing front OPEC has presented to the industrialized nations for the past several years.

But by mid-morning there were few buyers left to join in, and prices began a gradual retreat that lasted through the rest of the day.

Brokers said many investors seemed to be inclined to wait and see how the oil price situation would work out under world market forces, and how it would ultimately affect the U.S. economy.

MARKET observer also pointed out that many traders were reluctant to do any heavy buying, with the Dow having already risen to a 2½-month high in the past few days.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrial stocks fell .61 to 115.78, and S&P's 500-stock composite index lost .54 to 104.26.

The international oil stocks opened strong but were mixed by the end of the day. Exxon, Shell and Mobil were unchanged from Thursday, while Texaco and Royal Dutch held onto fractional gains.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .21 to 56.24.

Penn Central seeks liquidation

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Trustees of the bankrupt Penn Central Transportation Co. filed a plan of reorganization Friday in U.S. District Court which would result in the liquidation of the firm.

"This is the beginning of the end of reorganization," said Robert Blanchette, chairman of the board of trustees and chief executive officer for the estate.

Penn. Central, which once operated America's largest railroad, has been in reorganization under the Federal Bankruptcy Act since June 1970. Last April, the firm conveyed nearly all of its railroad properties to Consolidated Rail Corp. (ConRail).

The reorganization plan was filed after a majority of the creditors said it was acceptable in principle. The court still must ap-

Under the compromise agreement with the U.S. government and the U.S. Railways Association, which set up ConRail, the government has agreed to accept cash and bonds to cover the principal amount of Penn Central's $400 million claims.

Can George do it? Find way to foil Fran, that is

By WILLIAM N. WALLACE
New York Times Service

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — In every important statistic, the Minnesota Vikings lead the Washington Redskins. Therefore the alleged genius of George Allen, the Redskin coach, will be put to test once more today when these two meet in the first of four NFL divisional playoff games. The contest starts at noon locally (10 a.m., PST) and it will be played in comparatively balmy weather —

Channel 2, 10 a.m.

maybe over 40-degrees — on a fast, dry field at Metropolitan Stadium.

"If it were up to me, it wouldn't be that nice," said Minnesota coach Bud Grant. "Twenty-degree weather is about right for the playoffs."

At Redskin Park in Virginia this week, Allen, as always, concentrated on his defense. Allen's attention was riveted to his linebackers and cornerbacks, the five players who will have the most to do with stopping the Vikings and their all-star quarterback, Fran Tarkenton. The game could almost be advertised as Allen against Tarkenton.

They are hardly strangers. Allen was the defensive coach of the Chicago Bears in 1961 when Tarkenton and the Minnesota Vikings arrived on the NFL scene. They have come together as antagonists, the defensive minded coach and the cerebral quarterback, almost every season since then.

The game could also be advertised as Allen against Fred Cox, the Minnesota kicker. Cox has inserted a piece of spring steel into his kicking shoe, resulting in a dramatic improvement in his footwork. "His teammates gave him a standing ovation this week," Grant grinned. The shoe is apparently legal but Allen, obviously rattled, said, "We're going to have that shoe inspected before the game, I'll tell you that."

Allen was also concerned about the flu bug which ravaged the Redskin camp during the week, hitting such players as running backs Mike Thomas and Bob Brunet, kick returner Eddie Brown, kicker Mark Moseley, defensive end Dennis Johnson and reserve guard Dan Nugent. Allen brushed off the bug, saying all will be ready today.

In recent years, Tarkenton has been operating with more and better horses. Three years ago, in a divisional playoff game here, the Viking quarterback completed two touchdown passes in a 27-20 victory which saw Minnesota score 17 points in the fourth quarter. As now the Vikings were the Central Division champions of the National Football Conference, the Redskins, the NFC wild card team from the Eastern Division.

Raiders, as usual, are back; Pats a fresh face

By ERIC PREWITT
Associated Press

OAKLAND (AP) — The New England Patriots are in the NFL's postseason Super Bowl tournament for the first time.

For the Oakland Raiders, however, it seems like the 100th time.

"I'm getting tired of being asked every year whether the Raiders are finally going to go to the Super Bowl again," says Ken Stabler, the quarterback who will match his passes today (1 p.m., PST) against the throwing and running of the Patriots' Steve Grogan.

Four current Raiders — Gene Upshaw, Fred Biletnikoff, Pete Banaszak and Willie Brown — played on Oakland's only Super Bowl team, 33-14 losers to the Green Bay Packers in the championship game following the 1967 season. Since then, there have been eight division titles in nine years but no Super Bowl appearances.

This year's Oakland club forged the best record in the NFL, 13-1, as Stabler threw for 27 touchdowns and 2,737 yards in the best season of his career. Mark van Eeghen rushed for 1,012 yards, and the defense showed steady improvement after an embarrassing 48-17 loss to the Patriots 11 weeks ago.

"This year we're going to do whatever it takes," coach John Madden vowed as he took the Raiders into the playoffs again. The odds-makers must believe Madden. They've installed the Raiders as 7-point favorites.

The Western Division champions lost to the Pittsburgh Steelers in the last two American Conference title games and to the Miami Dolphins in the 1973 conference showdown.

Coach Chuck Fairbanks, in his fourth season with the Patriots, guided the team to an 11-3 record, reversing last year's 3-11 finish and gaining the AFC wild card playoff berth. The off-season decision to trade veteran quarterback Jim Plunkett to San Francisco and go with Grogan, 23, may have been a gamble at the time, but New England came up the big winner. While Plunkett struggled with the 49ers, Grogan passed for 1,903 yards and 18 touchdowns. He ran for 13 more, including three against the stunned Raiders on Oct. 3.

Both the Raiders and Patriots use a three-four defense, rather than the standard four-man front.

"Most people consider the defense strongest against the pass," admits Oakland defensive end Otis Sistrunk, knowing that the Raiders depend more on passing than the Patriots. Stabler is the NFL's passing leader, while the Pats are among the running leaders.

One of Oakland's running backs is former Patriot Carl Garrett. The Pats' top kickoff return man is ex-Raider Jesse Phillips.

Is this Jackson's last Ram game?

Unhappy with ball-control offense, wide receiver is playing out option

By RICH ROBERTS
Staff Writer

IRVING, Tex.—Merlin Olsen is the only Ram retiring, but any game may also be Harold Jackson's last one with the club.

The Independent Press-Telegram has learned that Jackson has not signed a 1976 contract and will become a free agent if he doesn't sign by May 1.

Reserve quarterback Ron Jaworski, placekicker Tom Dempsey and middle linebacker Jack Reynolds also are playing out their options. Dempsey and Reynolds are not expected to leave the Rams.

Jaworski is. Before this season the Polish Rifle refused a four-year contract calling for $700,000 — more than he was asking — because the Rams wouldn't guarantee he would start.

Jackson's problem may be more difficult to resolve. "It's not only money," Jackson says. "I just want to catch the football. That's why I play."

"The Rams have a ball-control offense, using a lot of running plays, and they don't throw the ball as much, so I don't get as many chances to catch it."

"That can also hurt when it comes time to negotiate your contract. The team will say, 'What did you do for us?' You can't say the reason you didn't catch a lot of passes was that they just weren't throwing them. It hurts."

Jackson is on the option year of the three-year contract he signed when the Rams acquired him from Philadelphia in 1973, along with running back Tony Baker, in exchange for two first-round draft choices, a third-round pick and quarterback Roman Gabriel.

He has led the Rams in receiving in '73 (40), '75 (43) and this season (39). But with the lowly Eagles he caught 65, 41, 47 and 62, leading the NFL the latter year and twice leading the league in yardage by receptions.

Jackson, a nine-year NFL veteran at 30, says he does not regret coming to the Rams.

"Winning is the big thing," he says, "but I like to feel like I contributed, too."

"There's a lot of pressure on you when they're throwing to you only three or four times a game. You know you have to catch just about everything or you're not doing your job."

Jackson doesn't buy the suggestion that NFL teams must run to win.

"A lot of passing teams win," he says. "Oakland, St. Louis, Minnesota, Dallas..."

Ram general manager Don Klosterman said, "We will sit down and talk to him after the season is over. There's no sense at this time to disrupt his thoughts and concentration. Hopefully, we can work it out."

But if it does go beyond money, Klosterman was asked, how can he negotiate the number of passes Jackson will catch?

"I can't," Klosterman said.

Marquette coach quitting after season It's curtains for McGuire

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Colorful, quotable Al McGuire, the winningest coach in college basketball over the last decade, said Friday he is resigning as coach of second-ranked Marquette at the end of the current season.

McGuire, who is also leaving his post as the school's athletic director, said he is stepping down to pursue business interests. He ruled out the possibility of coaching again.

"The honeymoon is over. That's all she wrote. Curtains," he said. "When I came here to Marquette I said I'd never coach at another institution."

He also said he will never coach professional basketball. "I would never coach a team that had someone who was paid more than me," McGuire said in his breezy Brooklyn accent.

He said he has been elected vice chairman of the board of Medalist Industries, Inc., effective May 1, 1977.

He has been on the board of directors of the firm for six years.

McGuire, whose Warriors are 4-0 and ranked second to Michigan in The Associated Press basketball poll, said he made the announcement now, at the beginning of his 13th season at Marquette, in order to give school officials more time to look for a replacement.

His Warrior teams have a 274-73 mark for a sparkling .790 winning percentage and have averaged more than 25 victories a season en route to ten successive post-season appearances.

McGuire built a hapless Marquette basketball program into a perennial independent power after leaving tiny Belmont Abbey College in North Carolina, where he had a 109-44 mark in seven years.

He never won an NCAA championship, but his 1974 team finished second to North Carolina State and he blamed his temper for blowing the game when he got two costly technicals.

Santa Claus, no stranger to snow and ice, paid early visit to Moscow this week to witness hockey tournament. While there, Comrade Santa decided to impart a few tips on goaltending technique to Vladimir Tretiak. Tretiak doesn't need many. He's netminder for Russian national team and has been actively pursued by several NHL clubs.

The Lakers reserve a victory, 118-105

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

Two reserves who were inserted into the lineup to give others a breather stayed to the end and lifted the Lakers to a 118-105 victory over the Phoenix Suns at the Forum Friday night.

Forward Tom Abernethy and guard Johnny Neumann combined for 16 points in the final eight minutes — their only points of the game — as the Lakers ran their home winning streak to nine with a come-from-behind victory.

Abernethy replaced hot-shooting Cazzie Russell (22 points) with 5:49 remaining and made the larger contribution, scoring all nine of his points in succession to boost the Lakers into an 11-point lead.

Neumann, on the bench all night, took over for Bo Lamar with 8:16 to go and scored seven points while handing off three assists, two on fast-break passes to Abernethy.

The Lakers scored 40 points in the final quarter, their season high, to notch their 16th win against 12 losses. Only one other time this season have they been four games over .500.

Center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led the Lakers with 27 points and guard Lucius Allen added 26.

Kings take on champs

Expect sellout for Canadian go

By AL LARSON
Staff Writer

The Kings, who appear to have snapped out of their prolonged slump, skate against the best team in hockey tonight, the Montreal Canadiens.

A capacity crowd of 16,000 is expected for the 8 o'clock match at the Forum.

Montreal, which won the Stanley Cup last spring by sweeping Philadelphia in four games, has virtually locked up the Norris Division title this season with a 24-5-4 record. Although the season is less than one-half along, the Canadiens hold a whopping 20-point lead over the Kings—the biggest margin in the four divisions.

After going 13 games without a win, coach Bob Pulford's Kings have done a turnaround and have lost only one of their last six starts (3-1-2). Fired by back-to-back road wins, the Kings regained second place and lead Pittsburgh by one point. The Penguins host Washington tonight in a key division match.

KINGS NOTES: The Kings will face Bunny Larocque in goal tonight. Montreal's backup goalie never has lost to L.A. in six starts (3-0-3). It also marks the first time in Larocque's NHL career that he has started two games in a row. He beat Colorado, 8-2, on Wednesday.

The Canadiens will be without defenseman Larry Robinson (back injury) and Yvon Cournoyer (groin pull). Both were sent home after the Colorado match.

Rogie Vachon apparently has regained his hot hand. The Kings' goalie has allowed only three goals in the last two games and eight in the last four starts. He's stopped 116 of 121 shots on goal during that span.

Marcel Dionne is tied with Rod Gilbert and Borje Salming for most assists in NHL with 32. Dionne ranks second to Montreal's Guy Lafleur in the scoring race with 48 points. Lafleur has notched 32 points.

Although Montreal is the highest scoring team in the NHL with 360 goals, Pete Mahovlich has scored only one goal in the last 18 games. Tommy Williams, who totaled 19 goals in 70 games last year for the Kings, surpassed that figure in his 32nd game this year. He ranks seventh among league pointmakers with 21 goals and 18 assists for 39 points. Butch Goring has 38. Montreal's Steve Shutt, who was averaging a goal-a-game, leads the league with 29 goals in 33 games.

Early return

Raul Ramirez of Mexico's Davis Cup team leaves ground to return shot from Roscoe Tanner of U.S. during first day of Cup competition Friday. Tanner recorded 7-5, 6-4, 6-4 upset victory over Ramirez as U.S. took 2-0 lead. Matches were played in Tucson, Ariz.

Tanner, Ashe give U.S. lead

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Roscoe Tanner shattered the tennis nemesis of Raul Ramirez with piston-like power and, along with Arthur Ashe, led the United States to a 2-0 lead over Mexico in the 1977 North American Zone Davis Cup competition.

Tanner, a 25-year-old polished hillbilly from Lookout Mountain, Tenn. with a service that explodes at 128 miles per hour, struck the first blow by smashing a favored Ramirez, 7-5, 6-4, 6-4.

Then the 30-year-old Ashe, playing his 31st Davis Cup match covering a full decade, cut down unruffled Roberto Chavez, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

"This is great," said an enthused Tony Trabert, captain of the U.S. team. "I think we have a good chance of making it a 5-0 sweep."

The Americans, who have not won the Davis Cup since 1972, can clinch a final spot in the North American Zone by winning today's doubles.

They send the experienced team of Stan Smith and Bob Lutz against a Mexican duo of Ramirez and probably Emilio Montano, a 23-year-old playing in his first Davis Cup match.

South Africa would be the next opponent in the 1977 series.

It was a pleasing victory for Tanner. Not only had Ramirez singlehandedly beaten America's finest tennis talent for the past two years, but he had made Tanner his personal pigeon since they first began meeting in tournaments in 1972, winning seven of their eight matches.

"I was more nervous today and sleeping less before the match than any semifinals at Forest Hills or Wimbledon," the Stanford graduate said. "I consider it my greatest victory in tennis."

Was it more satisfying than beating Connors at Wimbledon last year?

"Yes, much more pleasant," he replied. "For one thing, I was playing for the United States. Also, I felt I had to prove myself against Ramirez."

Adriano Panatta and Corrado Barazzutti led Italy to a 2-0 lead over Chile in Friday's other Davis Cup activity.

Panatta beat Patricio Cornejo 6-3, 6-1, 6-3 and Barazzutti toppled Aime Filoll 7-5, 4-6, 7-5, 6-1.

Regents approve Arizona schools moving to Pac-8

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — An Arizona Board of Regents policy committee approved Pacific-8 affiliation for Arizona State University and the University of Arizona Friday. But the move out of the Western Athletic Conference will be delayed a little longer, officials at the two schools said.

The presidents of the Arizona schools said there are some aspects of proposed football schedules for 1978 through 1986 that they would like to change.

Therefore, said Dr. John Schwada of Arizona State, the committee resolution recommends that the board simply authorize the schools to accept the Pacific-8 invitation without directing them to do so.

Dr. Fred Miller, Arizona State's athletic director, said he has been attempting to work out a final football schedule with Pac-8 athletic directors. The schedule is needed to arrive at plans for phasing out football games scheduled in the Western Athletic Conference, he explained.

Dr. John Schaefer, University of Arizona president, said he believes affiliation with the Pacific-8 is an opportunity for the Arizona schools and "we've got to get on with the business of scheduling and rescheduling."

The full board of regents still must vote on the move.

The Pacific-8 invitation expires May 1, 1977.

Pasadena toppled, 53-45

Jackrabbits win San Dimas

By KEN PIVERNETZ
Staff Writer

Poly High's hold on the top rung of the CIF basketball ladder still seems secure.

The Jackrabbits, getting big games from their big men—6-8½ Manuel Johnson and 6-8 Dino Gregory—turned back previously undefeated Pasadena, 53-45, Friday night to win the San Dimas Tournament of Champions at LaVerne College.

Poly is now 7-1 and Pasadena 8-1 following the first of what could be three meetings over the next month.

All Tournament Team: Dino Gregory (Poly), Lionel Marquette (Verbum Dei), Barry Brooks (Pasadena), Jack Fox (Corona del Mar), Kevin Hood (Pasadena), MVP—Manuel Johnson (Poly).

between the two teams many observers think are 1-2 in the CIF 4-A this season.

The schools are in the Glendale Tournament after Christmas and also have a Jan. 12 date in Long Beach.

The Jackrabbits, with Gregory scoring 17 points and pulling down 11 rebounds, and Johnson, with 14 points and 16 caroms, enjoyed a decided edge in both key statistical departments.

Each team had 19 field goals but Poly put up only 35 shots and hit at a 54 per cent clip; Pasadena connected on only 33 per cent from the field.

The Hares also enjoyed a 43-32 edge in rebounds. Neither team shot particularly well in a defense-dominated first half.

But the Hares made a big move at the outset of the third period, outscoring Pasadena, 12-2, in the first 4:30 to jump on top, 37-29.

It was a lead they never relinquished although Keith Stephens did pull the Bulldogs to within four points, 47-43, with 5:14 remaining.

Gregory, who had been fouled on the same play when Stephens scored, sank his two free throws to promptly put Poly ahead by five points again.

Except for a basket by Barry Brooks at 3:43, Pasadena managed only two points the last five minutes, due to Poly's semi-delay game and poor shooting.

Brooks was the only Pasadena player to hit with any consistency and finished with 21 points.

Johnson was selected the tournament MVP—an honor in the prestigious affair since the other awards have gone to Clifton Ponder, Roy Hamilton, James Hardy and Johnny Nash. Gregory was also selected to the all-tournament team.

Warren falls in Huntington Beach finals; Lakewood whips El Rancho

Junior Mike Camp scored eight points in the final 2:23 to give Estancia High a 68-60 win over Warren in the finals of the 48th Huntington Beach Tournament-Friday.

Camp, who was tied with high-game scoring honors with 24, put Estancia ahead to stay, 57-56, with 2:23 remaining.

Warren held its only lead of the evening, 56-55, with 3:30 remaining on a jump shot by Mark Mulane.

Warren's Frank Watson had returned the Bears into contention by sinking six second-half baskets over the Estancia zone.

The contest was won at the free throw line as Estancia sank 18-of-25 attempts while Warren hit six-of-nine charity tosses.

Ray Donnelly scored 24 points and Joe Brennan added 22 to carry Katella over host Huntington Beach, 85-72, in the third place contest. Chuck Greene added 19 for the winners.

Warren Ellis scored 21 points and Bill Valoff contributed 16 as Los Amigos knocked off Newport in the consolation final, 60-54.

Ellis hit 8-of-14 shots from the field to help offset the scoring of the Oilers' Rob Gale and Rolfe Schwalbe. Gale scored 16 and Schwalbe added 14.

Lakewood broke open a 13-point halftime lead with a 24-6 third quarter and coasted into the consolation finals of the La Habra Tournament with an 83-51 win over El Rancho.

Keith Harrington scored 21 points, Bill Norris 18 and Craig Dykema added 12 for Lakewood, which meets Los Altos tonight for the consolation title.

Dave Baker, chosen the most valuable player, scored 21 points to lead Los Alamitos past Santa Ana, 72-64, in the Santa Ana Tournament finals.

Tom Beckerle added 18 points for the winners. Wes Hairston scored 20 for the losers.

Mark Stewart scored all eight of his team's points in two overtimes to lift El Segundo over Mayfair, 65-63, in the third-place game of the El Segundo Tournament.

Stewart scored 32 points, including two in the first overtime and six in the second OT.

El Segundo trailed by eight points entering the final period and began fouling Mayfair. The Monarchs missed five free throws in the final three minutes.

Tom Kuyper scored 21 points for Mayfair; Rick Duffie added 17.

Muir outscored Paramount 10-1 to open the final period and went on to a 68-56 win in the Paramount Tournament.

Darnell Marable, voted the most valuable player, scored 19 for the winners to offset a balanced Paramount attack. Ken Korver led the Pirates with 12 points.

Arcadia withstood a strong final quarter by Artesia to take the consolation championship with an 87-80 win.

Mike Querrey scored 21 and Rick Vankirk totaled 18 for Arcadia, which led by 17 late in the third period, then saw its advantage melt away behind a balanced Artesia attack.

The Pioneers outscored Arcadia, 34-25, in the last quarter. Bob Trombley finished with 15 points and Kyle Rafael (14), Bill Woolsey (12), Mark Martinez (11) and Eddie Tribble (11) also scored in double figures.

Downey received outstanding play from sophomore John Ritchie and Herb Harper to advance to the finals of the Troy Tournament with a 61-53 win over El Dorado.

Ritchie hit 11-of-17 shots for 22 points and Harper scored 18 points and grabbed 15 rebounds as the Vikings took an eight-point

BANNING PLAYS FOR L.A. CITY GRID TITLE

Banning High makes its second successive appearance in the L.A. City finals this evening—and the Pilots should finally win the elusive football championship when they meet Cleveland in the Coliseum, 7:30.

Banning is averaging 39.8 points per start; yielding 9.7 on defense. Last year Banning fell to San Fernando, 20-8, in the finals. This year Banning smashed San Fernando, 29-0, in the quarterfinals.

The Pilots, following a last-minute 23-21 defeat to Loyola in their season-opener, have won 11 in a row.

The backfield of Freeman McNeil (1,134 yards, 7.4 avg.), Ronnie Settles (659 yards, 5.8 avg.)

and quarterback Joey Montijo (1,184 yards, 75 per cent) should prove difficult to contain.

Coach Chris Ferragamo also has depth. Ricky Price, who replaced the injured McNeil in a 58-34 win over Monroe last week, has gained 659 yards (5.8 avg.) while Joy Hayward, who picked up 130 yards on four carries against Monroe, has added 198 yards (18.0 avg.)

Tim Brown heads the Cleveland attack. He has gained 1,410 yards and scored 19 touchdowns. Dave Smith joins Brown in the backfield, gaining 489 yards.

Junior quarterback Darin Erickson has thrown for 1,153 yards while being intercepted only four times.

Poly travels to Lynwood in CIF showdown; Saints host Wilson

An intriguing game matching the defending CIF 4-A and 3-A basketball champions takes place at Lynwood High tonight, 7:30, when the Knights host Poly.

The 4-A Jackrabbits, who beat Lynwood, 65-52, a year ago, have been competing in the San Dimas Tournament this week. Lynwood improved its record to 6-2 with a 79-57 win over El Monte Tuesday night.

ST. Anthony continues its series against the other Long Beach high schools tonight, hosting Wilson at 7:30.

The Saints are 4-2, having split two games with Jordan and losing to Poly.

Wilson is off to a slow start but coach Butch Taylor has been pleased with the progress of two juniors, Guy Mayo and Kevin Jones. Mayo, 6-3, had never played before being recruited out of gym class by Taylor.

Wrestlers vie at Jordan

Jordan High will host a 12-team wrestling tournament today beginning at 10 a.m.

Schools entered include the Panthers, Poly, Wilson, North Torrance, Torrance, Bolsa Grande, Pioneer, Kennedy of La Palma, El Rancho, Garden Grove, San Marino and Schurr.

Le Fleur logs fastest time at Alamitos

Le Fleur, a daughter of Azure Te, stunned 6,041 fans at Los Alamitos Race Course Friday afternoon when she raced to an impressive victory in the first division of the Golden State Futurity Trials and unofficially came away with the fastest qualifying time to the Christmas night headliner than will carry a $185,000 purse.

A list of official qualifiers to the 350-yard sprint will be released this morning by racing secretary Donald Smith following examination of the exact times from photo finish pictures.

Le Fleur, ridden by Jerry Nicodemus, the only man to win two All-American Futurity crowns, won the afternoon's fourth race, covering the 350 yards in a blistering 17.68 seconds. The time was 11/100ths of a second faster than any other entry.

Sent off as a 68-1 longshot, Le Fleur rewarded her few backers with a return of $139.20, $35.20 and $8.

Terry Lipham rode three winners Friday, increasing his meeting total to 10, one behind leader Danny Cardozo.

MITO WISE DANCER. . . Best of champions?

Perfect spot for Mito to start a streak

Mito Wise Dancer had an impressive winning streak broken the other day at Los Alamitos Race Course, but the big gray colt has a good spot to start another one Sunday at the Orange County track.

The 3-year-old son of Mito Paint will be facing one of the toughest challenges of his young life when he takes on the classy mare, She's Precious, and a host of others in the $75,000 Champion of Champions.

Before last week's Cypress Handicap, when upstart Native Creek outran him, Mito Wise Dancer had everything going pretty much his way in the quarter horse world. He had won nine in a row and was unbeaten in three previous races on the Katella Avenue straightaway.

STILL, WINNING six of seven as a 3-year-old is a major achievement when you consider he's been running against the best of his age group in the country.

His victories included the El Primero Del Ano Derby and the All-American Derby, and his 1976 bankroll is more than $250,000.

He did it the hard way. The gray colt took off five months, from January to June, to have knee surgery on both front legs.

"When he came back I couldn't tell the difference in the way he ran," trainer H.C. (Budda) Wener said. "You can't see it in his legs and you can't tell by the way he runs that he had the surgery at all."

Werner is aware of just how much competition his colt will be up against when he tries to close out his running career on a winning note Sunday.

The chief opposition is expected to come from She's Precious, who has the longest winning streak of any horse in the race, six. The speedy Roma Charge mare will be bidding for national honors along with several others including Dash For Cash, Wanta Go and Heza Charger.

"It's a tough race," says Werner. "Any time you go against that many good horses you have your hands full."

Still, Werner seems to exude confidence about the his colt's chances. He isn't bothered by the fact Mito Wise Dancer was outrun badly in the Cypress Handicap, a race that was supposed to be nothing more than a tuneup for him.

"We have no excuses about the race," Werner said. "We just got beat."

OF COURSE, Werner can look back to last year's Champion of Champions to find reason to be confident. Easy Date, the mare who went on to earn national championship honors by winning the 1975 Champions race, used the Cypress for a tuneup and was defeated by another mare named Native Empress.

Despite last week's loss, Mito Wise Dancer has an impressive career record that shows 13 wins in 22 starts, and he's finished worse than second only five times. His lifetime bankroll is more than $300,000—not a bad neighborhood, especially for a colt that has had surgery on both knees.

"He usually just runs as fast as he has to," Werner noted. "I think he can run off and hide if he wants to, but usually he just does what he has to do. I've only seen him pin his ears back and strain once."

Even in defeat to Native Creek, Mito Wise Dancer was coming on strong all the way and made up ground on every horse in the field but the winner.

Colts counting on circumstance

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts hope circumstances repeat themselves when they take on the Pittsburgh Steelers in the first round of the NFL playoffs Sunday.

The Colts host the Steelers, who won their last nine games of the regular season to take the American Conference Central Division championship.

Last year, it was Baltimore which had a nine-game winning streak going into the first-round playoff game in Pittsburgh. The Steelers won, 28-10, and went on to a second consecutive Super Bowl.

"We had to run a four-minute mile to get in, and it was tough to keep it up," said Baltimore coach Ted Marchibroda of last year's stretch drive.

The same thing could happen to the Steelers this time around, but Marchibroda feels Pittsburgh is "a much stronger club than we were last year."

At the same time, Marchibroda believes the Colts are also vastly improved, a feeling shared by his players.

"We're more experienced, more poised, have a lot more character this year than last year," said defensive tackle Joe Ehrmann, the leader of the defensive front four dubbed the "Sack Pack."

Lydell Mitchell, who set a club record with 1,200 yards rushing this season, said the Colts "are going in this year convinced we can win the Super Bowl."

The Steelers are rated four-point favorites in the game to be played before a sellout crowd of 60,020 at Memorial Stadium and a national television audience. The weather outlook calls for temperatures around 50 with little chance of rain.

Baltimore sports the NFL's top offense, led by quarterback Bert Jones, Mitchell and wide receiver Roger Carr, but it will face the league's best defense in Pittsburgh.

In winning their last nine games, the Steelers have allowed just 28 points, a statistic Mitchell described as "frightening."

- Since 1973, the home team has won every opening-round playoff game except one (Dallas at Minnesota last year).
- Since 1973, including both divisional and conference playoffs, the home team has the edge, 14-4.
- The Rams are 0-6 in playoff games on the road.
- DALLAS coach Tom Landry warns about underestimating the Cowboys' offense, which has been struggling the last half of the season.
- "We were concerned about the defense early this season," he says, "but that got straightened out. I think our offense has the same capability. We've

"This year it has been heavier than ever. I think the Bicentennial year has had something to do with it, strange as it may sound. Roger, you know, is a patriotic figure—the Navy, Vietnam. Probably 80 per cent of his letters are from kids."

At first, Staubach tried to answer all the mail himself. Now he can't even autograph the pictures.

"We may be sending out 5,000 a season," Roz says. "We finally had to start using the stamped signature."

Exceptions are kids with problems, to whom Staubach sends a personal note.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Devaney calls for NCAA split

Nebraska athletic director Bob Devaney doesn't think much of the way the National Collegiate Athletic Association is running Division I football.

"They (the NCAA) are trying to drive football down the tubes," Devaney said as the organization's annual convention prepares to meet Jan. 10 in Miami Beach.

"There are schools in Division I helping make the rules that don't even belong there," he continued.

Devaney said he favors a separate organization of about 75 colleges and universities to govern their own athletic programs.

"That appears to be the only solution," said the former football coach.

Parseghian to the pros?

There are signs that former Notre Dame football coach Ara Parseghian's icy and determined stand against coaching in the professional ranks might be thawing.

"I'll be re-evaluating my attitude on the pros in the next couple of weeks," said the 53-year-old Parseghian.

"But right now, truthfully, I'm leaning against the idea."

Your honor, meet Charlie O.

Two days after court proceedings began, Judge Frank J. McGarr of the U.S. District Court already had a preliminary ruling in Charles O. Finley's $3.5 million suit against major league baseball.

"This is a strange trial," Judge McGarr said. "Everybody in the U.S. has an opinion and makes it known. I was practically stopped on the street and instructed how to rule."

BRIEFLY: George T. Eastment, an international and Olympic coach who built Manhattan College into a national track and field powerhouse during his 17 years at the school, died Friday at 72. North Carolina football coach Bill Dooley says recruiting and practice for the upcoming Peach Bowl on schedule after he decided to turn down "a very tempting and attractive offer" to coach at another school. Dooley would leave the school but reports are that he was offered a post at the University of Miami in Florida.

Howard Davis, the Olympic gold medal winner in the lightweight boxing division, turned professional Friday. Oregon's new football coach, Rich Brooks, says it will take at least two solid recruiting years to turn the program around. He will concentrate on the Oregon and Washington areas and will depend more on high schools than junior colleges so he can use the players longer.

Harvard football player Andrew Poupolet died Friday after a month-long coma that resulted from being stabbed in the heart while in the Combat Zone—a high crime area in downtown Boston.

O.J. Simpson, who led the National Football League in rushing this year, has been selected as the November winner in the race for the Hickok Professional Athlete of the Year award. Baltimore quarterback Bert Jones was second in the balloting, jockey Sandy Hawley third.

Third baseman Mike Schmidt is closing in on a DiMaggio mark—Vince DiMaggio, that is. Schmidt led the league in home runs for the third consecutive year in 1976 but also recorded his third successive year as the National League batter with the most strikeouts. No one has led the NL in whiffs four years in a row since Vince DiMaggio did it from 1942 to 1945.

Tony Dorsett says that if he had his choice he would simply move down the block from the University of Pittsburgh to the Pittsburgh Steelers. But Dorsett will not have a choice and will probably move to one of the lowly NFL teams and become part of a building program. Nonetheless, the Heisman Trophy winner says he supports the draft system as a necessity to preserving balanced competition.

Olga Korbut's wedding gown and veil were finally returned to the tiny Soviet gymnast in New York after a week-long odyssey in which they traveled from a St. Louis department store to a garbage can in an Indianapolis bus terminal. The porter who cleaned the charter bus mistook the boxes which contained the gown and veil for lunch boxes and threw them away. An alert superintendent found them and turned them in to a receptionist, who turned them in to a local radio station, who returned them to Miss Korbut.

San Diego Chargers owner Eugene Klein defends his decision to let Stanford hire away offensive coordinator Bill Walsh. "Walsh is no God, no genius. I think he made a valuable contribution to our offense, but our progress will continue."

Muhammad Ali is signed for $2 million to fight South African Mike Schutte, but promoter Don King says the fight will probably never take place. The World Boxing Council has received a telegram from Ali dated Dec. 13 which says Ali will defend his title against George Foreman before May 30.

Executives of three United States television networks left Moscow Friday after breaking off negotiations with the Soviets for broadcast rights to the 1980 Olympic Games here, network sources said. The reason, according to one source, was "excessive demands ($100 million) by the Soviets." The networks' next step will be to seek U.S. justice department permission for a pooled coverage of the Olympics. "The prosecution and defense rested their cases Friday in the murder retrial of Rubin (Hurricane) Carter and John Artis after 31 days of testimony by 76 witnesses. The case could go to the jury by Tuesday."

49ers are still in PCAA—and limbo

Long Beach State's status with the Pacific Coast Athletic Association and the Western Athletic Conference has not changed, 49er athletic director Perry Moore said Friday.

Earlier this week, Moore told this newspaper that he had made "unofficial inquiries" about possible membership in the WAC, which is losing Arizona and Arizona State to the Pacific-8.

"Anything I've done concerning the WAC has been on a strictly unofficial basis," Moore reported Friday. "I've talked very briefly with our president (Stephen Horn) and he's aware of my inquiries, but until something further happens, we'll be in a stage of limbo."

Moore returned Thursday from San Diego where he and several LBSU administrators, including Horn, Frank Bowman and Jack Skaimline, had attended the PCAA's winter meetings.

Moore said that the PCAA sessions were "probably the quietest I've ever attended," and that there was no discussion on significant issues.

Looking good

Sandra Post reacts as her 15-foot birdie putt rolls into hole on 18th green during Friday's second round of Mixed Team golf championships in Miami. Sandra sank several long putts as she and partner Tom Watson recorded 10-under-par 63 to take two-shot lead.

Post, Watson claim lead in mixed golf

MIAMI (AP) — Sandra Post one-putted five of the last six holes as she and Tom Watson combined to record a brilliant nine-under-par 63 and take a two-stroke lead Friday in the second round of the new $200,000 Mixed Team Championship.

"Along about the 18th hole I took my putter out of the bag just to look at it," Watson said. "It seems like I hadn't held it in my hand all day long."

"It's a great feeling to stand out there in the fairway and know that if you get it anywhere inside 15 feet, your partner is going to make it."

The selected drive, alternate shot format of this event has the men and women touring pros playing together for the first time in a decade. The Post-Watson team have combined their talents superbly for a two-round total of 134, 10 under par on the Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club.

Jo Ann Washam and Chi Chi Rodriguez put together another 68 and were in at 136, followed by Pat Bradley and Masters champ Ray Floyd at 137.

First-round leaders Marlene Hagge and Dr. Gil Morgan bogeyed three par-five holes and had to rally for a 73 that left them a distant five strokes behind at 139 halfway through this chase for a $40,000 first prize.

Watson, a former British Open champion, did most of the early scoring for his team, dropping putts of 20, 15 and 10 feet as his team went four under par on the first 10 holes.

From then on, Sandra's spectacular putting took over.

Oklahoma State's runners up against BYU's passer

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Oklahoma State is rated a six-point favorite over Brigham Young University in what is expected to be a high-scoring battle in the 31st Tangerine Bowl today.

It will be a game of contrasting offenses.

BYU Coach LaVell Edwards said quarterback

"They're a big challenge for us," Oklahoma State coach Jim Stanley said of the Cougars, the nation's top passing team.

"But our defensive secondary has been doing a good job all year."

Gifford Nielsen and his receivers "are as ready as we'll ever be."

Oklahoma State hopes to put enough pressure on the long and lanky passer from Provo, Utah, to hold down BYU scoring which averaged 32 points a game over a 9-2 season.

Then, the Cowboys from Stillwater, want to be able to shake loose their top running backs, Robert Turner and all-America Terry Miller, to get on the scoreboard often enough to counter Nielsen's expected aerial barrage.

Miller rushed for 1,541 yards and 19 TDs for the Big Eight co-champs during their 8-3 season. Conversely, the 6-foot-5 Nielsen, a former basketball star at BYU, was second in the nation in total offense, passing for 3,192 yards and 29 touchdowns.

LBSU women cagers triumph

Cathy Sutton scored 16 points and got help from teammates Cindy Simmons (12), Monica Havelka (11) and Lynne Stith (11) as the Long Beach State women's basketball team defeated San Francisco State, 76-66 in the first round of the Cal Poly Pomona Invitational Friday.

The 49ers meet Cal State Northridge in a semi-final game at noon today and if they win that contest will play for the tournament title tonight at 8.

proven it too often in the past that they don't stay that way long."

FRED DRYER, the Rams' defensive right end, explains the problem presented by the Cowboys' complex offense.

"Adjustment to the formations is a problem primarily for the linebackers and the secondary. The defensive problem for me is to contain anything inside and outside, and to get to (quarterback Roger) Staubach."

"Our basic defenses remain the same—a 4-3 overshifted or under. Against Staubach, you try to rush him without getting overcommitted. He'll go outside most of the time when he's trapped."

Dryer will be one-on-one with left tackle Ralph Neely, "the most consistent tackle I've ever played against."

"To beat Dallas, we have to be as disciplined as they are. I don't play hunches. I stay in the defensive plan."

STAUBACH has a full-time secretary to handle his fan mail.

"During the season," says Roz Cole, "he gets about three, four hundred pieces of mail per week. During December and January it steps up to maybe six hundred."

citizens, too," Roger says, "people in nursing homes."

"I have one lady who just had her hundredth birthday. Her eyesight is about gone, but her biggest joy is watching the Cowboys on an 8-inch black-and-white television set. I've been writing to her for several years."

THE COWBOYS have a group within the team called the Zero Club, consisting of players who pride themselves on lack of recognition and publicity.

Charter members are guard Blaine Nye and defensive tackle Larry Cole.

Both have slipped up this season. In a national TV game, Cole sacked Redskins quarterback Bill Kilmer.

"That was embarrassing to the club," says Nye.

But in the same game, Nye was cited for holding, although the referee identified him only as "61."

"He could have been so informal as to call me by my first name," Nye says. "Sixty."

Nye holds masters degrees in physics and business administration, so he was assigned to create a motto for the club:

"One for None, and All for Naught."

LBSU CAGERS—

In many of those places, Jones believes, it is the crowd that determines who wins.

"I think that's a very large part of it," contends Jones. "I don't think it's necessarily a matter of a visiting team playing poorly, but rather the home team playing better."

"The home crowd makes them play better," insists Jones. "In the Wichita State game, for example, the crowd (10,002), refused to let us win the game."

"We stayed close all the way, and when we'd get a turnover and have a chance to get closer, there was absolute silence. Then, if we missed the shot and they got the rebound, the crowd would go crazy," adds Jones.

"That makes the visiting team press a little more and it picks up the home team. It's a difficult thing to overcome."

Jones calculates that the 49ers own a similar edge in the Long Beach Arena.

"From a psychological standpoint, we have very knowledgeable fans," says Jones. "They know when they have to push us. We've won 99 games here and a lot of those wins came in games we should have lost, but the crowd wouldn't let us. They made us win the game."

Those "psychologists" should prove valuable allies in the next three weeks. Among the visitors to the Arena will be Montana, Loyola, Gonzaga, Portland State, Illinois, UC Santa Barbara and Arizona State.

Weber may be as good, or better, than any of them.

Weber enters tonight's encounter with a 3-1 record, with wins over Brigham Young (96-75), University of Utah (75-74) and Utah State (72-67). The loss was to Pacific-8 contender Oregon State (76-73).

The Wildcats have started surprisingly strong for a club that has only one starter returning from a unit that was 21-11 a year ago.

Their resurgence has been led by Stan Jayhew, a 6-7 jumping jack who transferred from Southern Colorado Junior College after breaking all of Spencer Haywood's scoring and rebounding records.

Mayhew is averaging 21.3 points and 12.3 rebounds per game.

Weber's other starters are 6-9 Jim Erickson, a senior letterman who is averaging 17 points a game; 6-5 freshman Bruce Collins (12.5), 6-0 freshman Mark Mattos (11.5) and 6-6 Bob Holgate (11.3).

Jones plans no major tactical or personnel changes with his team, which has lost its last two games after opening the season with five victories.

"The things we're doing are right," says Jones. "We've just got to get a little tougher and a little smarter. If we play our game and do what we're supposed to be doing, we'll be okay."

The 49ers will start Dale Dillon, Richard Johnson, Clarence Ruffen, Larry Hudson, Lloyd McMillan and as many Long Beach Arena "psychologists" as Jones can recruit.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: Should find you well along in personal development. Latent ability rising steadily as you follow intuition. Much routine is left behind as you move on this year. Relationships encounter a wide range of mixed experience, generally pleasant, up to you for the most part. Today's natives are easygoing, with aptitudes in music, the art of government. Those born this year will promote unusual ideas, have individual values different from average because low-key psychic factors are familiar to their thinking.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Casual travel encounters unusual conditions, okay if you have supplies, no demanding schedules to meet. Pick companions wisely if a choice must be made.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): You have space and time for socializing, but shouldn't use it as an extension for commercial connections. Close observation tonight brings clarification.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Mix with the right people, be yourself. Contacts made, now are illusory. Your experience of doing as you'd like to be done by should guide you in your approach.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): You need a break, have trouble detaching yourself from ongoing enterprises. Manage it anyway. You owe a special person some token of your true feelings.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): If you're optimistically prepared, you can get a great many pertinent details off your list. Well-organized social entertainment brings expansive benefits.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): There's an indication of what's coming. Be ready for the best as well as for release from petty obligation. Catch up with people you don't see during the week.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): There really isn't that much to decide. You can settle controversial issues in regular social functions of your community. Romantic impulses are encouraged.

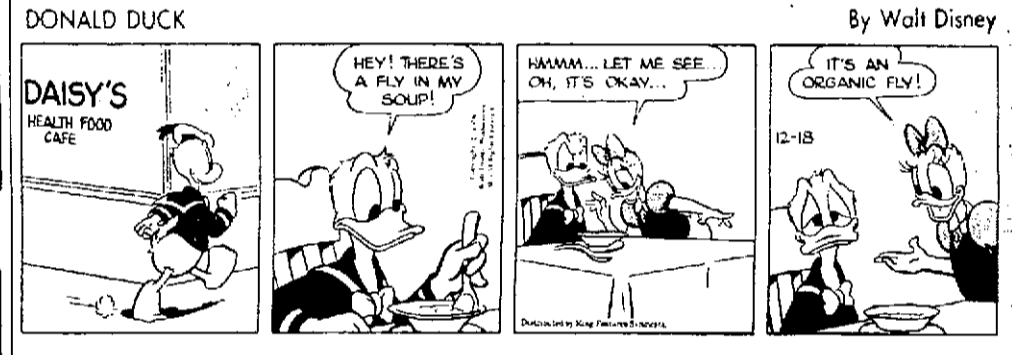

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Get joy out of the good features of your daily living. Some phases are thinning out, new promises are for the coming week. A reconciliation is feasible.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Do well what you personally attend to, as a sort of implied art expression of your inner quality. Shared interests are possible if you take the initiative.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Visit those who can't travel with you. Investigating the unknown is a fascinating hobby, especially if participated in by individuals of diverse talents.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Make a full round of Sunday reunions with friends, in-laws you care for. Diplomacy lets you meet new contacts, and perhaps build important relationships.

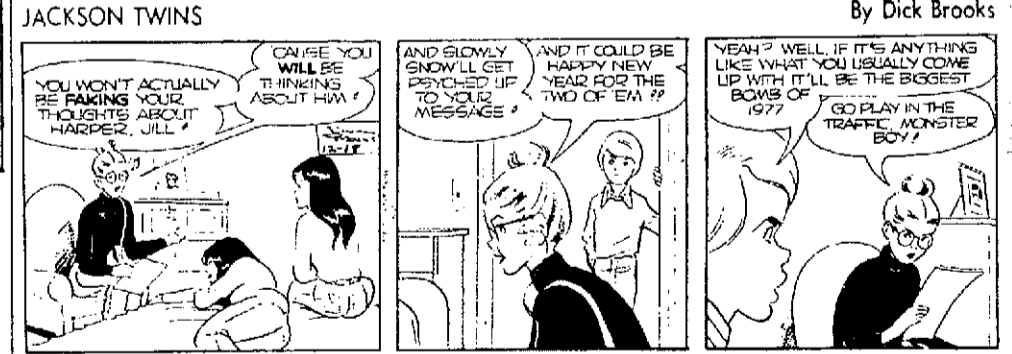

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Clear away the old, make room for the new which has not yet arrived. Maneuvering has no point. Give thanks for all that is in order, pray for guidance.

Nobody in Essex watches TV, even with a set in most homes

By MIKE GOODKIND
ESSEX (API) — Nobody in Essex watches television. Nobody can. It's one of the very few communities left in America that can't receive TV signals.

They can't penetrate the mountainous Mojave Desert to the antennas a few folks in Essex have put up in hopes of someday watching a football game or movie.

Some of the 17 ranchers and park rangers who live in the nearby hills can pull in stations broadcasting from Phoenix, Ariz., 270 miles to the southeast. But the 50 folks clustered around the post office, gas station and elementary school here get nothing. Even the closest stations — in Las Vegas, 110 miles away — are blocked by hills.

The Denver Research Institute says that one million U.S. households receive inadequate service on only one channel. Essex, with no service at all, is lumped into that figure along with isolated communities without TV in several other states.

HO DO the desert dwellers of Essex, one of the larger communities with no television, feel about their situation?

"It's really boring here," says 13-year-old Toni Smith, who rides a bus 80 miles roundtrip daily to attend junior high school in Needles, which also is the nearest community with a doctor and supermarket.

"Television is an excuse for not doing something about loneliness," says Phil Acosta, 19, a highway maintenance worker. "Without TV I go out and make friends."

"I think you have politer kids here," says Margaret Stevens, 57, who was raised in New York and whose husband, Al, is the school teacher. "Everyone knows everyone. Kids are forced to talk with their parents. You just can't sit in front of the TV and stare."

Many of the older people spend free time roaming the brush country in four-wheel-drive jeeps, a substitute for TV entertainment. The kids, instead of basing their games on television programs play at truck driver, a reflection of the traffic on the interstate highway that passes six miles away. "They pretend the trucks have CB radios," says Dennis Smith, 11. "They might say, 'I'm stranded up on the grade, come up and help me.'"

IRONICALLY, perhaps, just about everyone in this little California town owns a TV set. Most moved here in recent years and brought with them the TV sets they had watched living other lives in other towns and cities.

Modern technology could bring television to Essex, but the several thousand dollars needed for a mountaintop device to relay a TV signal would have to be split among too few townspeople. The exact cost awaits an engineering study.

"Most people here just sort of scratch out a living," says Walt Smith, who runs a service station. "They're here because they like living in the desert, not because they want to be rich."

The sign which once flanked U.S. 66 reads, "Essex, Pop. 100." The sign is still there, but most of the people and Highway 66 aren't.

Interstate 40, completed in April 1973, bypasses Essex by six miles.
